

Lord Home Faces Task As Leader

Cabinet Praised, Derided by Press

LONDON (AP)—Lord Home, Britain's new prime minister, today faced an urgent repair job on the Conservative party's election machinery, disrupted by defections at the top.

Home's quickly constructed Cabinet—largely a reshuffle of Harold Macmillan's—won general approval from Conservative newspapers and derision from pro-Labor commentators.

Handicapped, They Say
Editorial writers of both sides suggested the government must be handicapped by the refusal of Iain MacLeod and Enoch Powell to serve under Home.

MacLeod, one of the younger Tory progressives who backed Richard A. Butler in last week's struggle for the leadership was expected to resign as joint chairman of the Conservative party.

Informal sources said his co-chairman, financier Lord Poole, would resign with him. He had backed Science Minister Lord Hailsham to succeed Macmillan.

MacLeod and Poole were a formidable team in planning Conservative platform and finances for the national election next year. Their joint chairmanship probably will be turned into a one-man post and given to John Hare, 52, a former labor minister who took the sinecure post of chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in the new Cabinet.

Editorial Comment
Editorial reaction to Home's Cabinet ranged from "a good start" in the Conservative Daily Sketch to "grotesque" in the Laborite Daily Mirror.

Most political commentators believe MacLeod, by refusing office after winning an ovation at the recent Conservative party conference, staked an unspoken claim to the leadership if Home should falter.

Home's major innovation was to create a secretary for industry, trade and regional development and hand it to his former deputy foreign minister, Edward Heath, 47.

Stay With Home
The new prime minister succeeded in getting his three major challengers for the party leadership to stick with him.

Butler, his chief rival and former deputy prime minister, took Home's old job of foreign secretary. Lord Hailsham continues as science minister and Chancellor of the Exchequer. Reginald Maudling stayed in his old post.

To replace MacLeod as floor leader in Commons, Home brought Selwyn Lloyd out of limbo and made him lord privy seal, giving him a seat in the Cabinet. Lloyd, foreign secretary for five years under Anthony Eden and Macmillan, was fired as chancellor of the exchequer in July 1962 because his wage freeze policy had been unpopular.

Form of Civil Rights Measure To Be Decided

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is the week that should determine what shape civil rights legislation is going to take in Congress.

Starting Tuesday, the House Judiciary Committee will take up proposals to weaken the civil rights bill now under consideration. Before the week ends, votes are expected on at least some of the revisions.

The committee sessions will be the chief activity in the House.

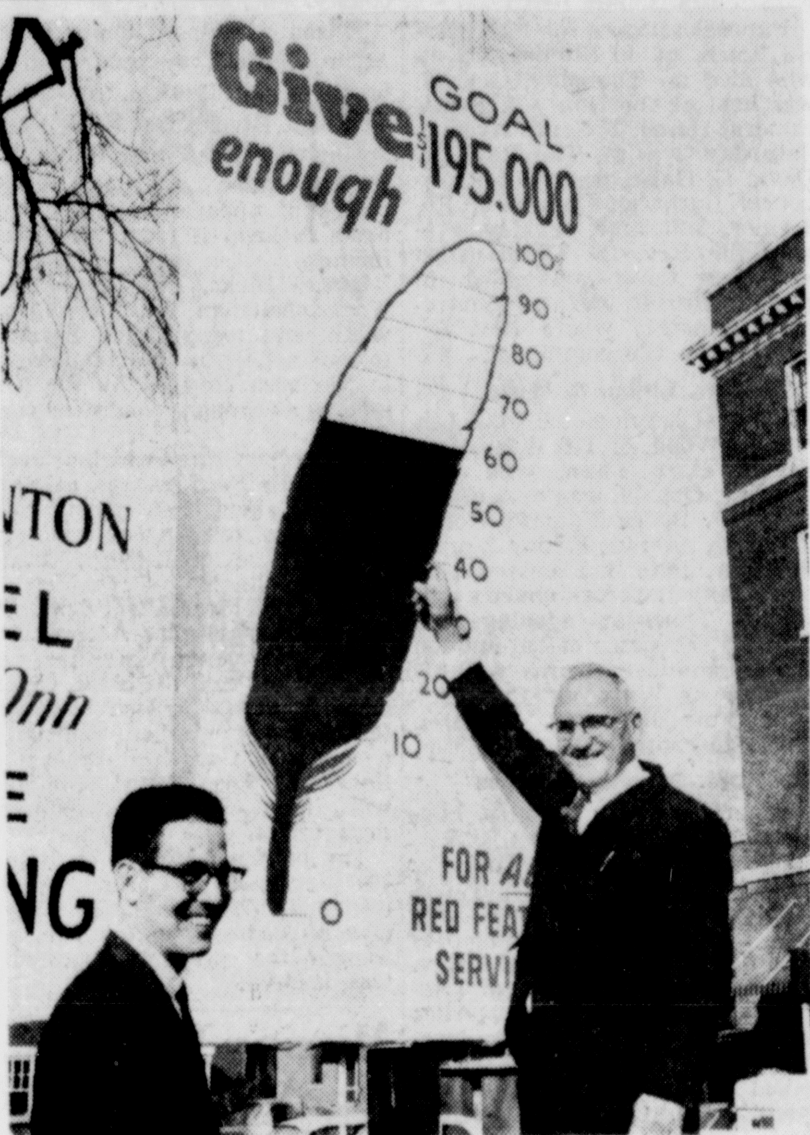

Vote Set Today
The Senate has scheduled a vote today on a $1.7-billion program of aid to higher education, but after that the spotlight will also shift to a committee room, where hearings on the administration tax bill continue.

The Senate brought the college bill to the verge of passage last week but put off the final vote to accommodate Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who had to be out of town the latter part of the week.

Want Moderation
In the House Judiciary Committee two veterans of civil rights legislative battles will try to rally support for a more moderate bill than that produced by one of its subcommittees.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., who helped shape the stronger bill, has headed the plea of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to try to tone it down so it can command broader support.

Celler has lined up most of the Northern Democrats on the committee to support him, but needs the ranking minority member, Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, to go along if a strong bipartisan base is to be fashioned.

Location, Not Water Ruppert Site Reason

"A misinterpretation of facts," Rigby said he was disturbed by a recent statement inferring that the Jacob Ruppert Brewing Co. chose a site other than Kingston because of the water situation here.

Location Main Concern
Rigby, who serves as city historian, points out that the main consideration prior to picking a brewery site was the matter of proximity to major distributors in New England. His statement also indicates that there is no knowledge that the Ruppert interests ever investigated the local land and water availability.

In a political address Thursday in a downtown restaurant, Alderman Frank C. Sass, Seventh Ward, Democratic candidate for mayor, criticized Mayor Schwenk's opposition to a proposed water system improvement program which would have cost $1,335,000.

Sass, in his address, claimed that the mayor jeopardized 1,200 jobs, he indicates would have come here, had Rupperts built their brewery in Kingston.

Rupperts Didn't Answer
Rigby's statement follows: "As president of Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, I have neither the specific authority nor the inclination to make an official Chamber comment upon recent attempts to interest the Jacob Ruppert Brewing Company in a Kingston area location for a new industrial plant."

Will Take 2d Look at Genovese Drug Conviction Coming Up Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today ordered reconsideration of the narcotics law conviction of Vito Genovese, reputed overlord of organized crime in this country.

The court divided 6-3. Genovese, 66-year-old native of Italy, was described in recent Senate crime hearings as kingpin of a nationwide crime syndicate known as Costa Nostra. He is serving a 15-year sentence in the Leavenworth, Kan., Penitentiary.

The case of Genovese and nine others convicted with him was sent back to the U.S. Circuit Court in New York for reconsideration in light of a Supreme Court decision last May 27 in another case. Justices Clark, Harlan and White dissented from today's action.

Reconsideration Ordered
The Supreme Court acted in the case of Genovese and the others with a brief order which directed that the judgment of the circuit court in New York upholding their conviction should be set aside pending reconsideration.

The May decision was in the case of Alvin R. Campbell and two others, who were convicted in a bank robbery. The Supreme Court's decision in the Campbell case held that an FBI agent who had interviewed a witness should have turned over to the defense his notes of the interview.

The trial judge in the Campbell case had refused permission for production of the notes, and for production of a report on the interview.

No View on Decisions
Justice Clark, who wrote a two-paragraph dissent, in which Justices Harlan and White joined, said he realized that the Supreme Court was not deciding today that the Campbell case governed the Genovese case; also that the Supreme Court was not implying how the circuit court should decide the Genovese case on reconsideration.

Clark said that he and the two other dissenters favored the Supreme Court's hearing argument on the Genovese case. He said he felt "it is futile" to send the Genovese case back to the lower court for reconsideration in the light of the Campbell case.

In a footnote to his dissent, (Continued on Page 8, Col. 8)

Russians See NATO Move Against Ban

MOSCOW (AP)—A formal statement carried by Tass declared today steps taken toward development of a multilateral nuclear force in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization "are in complete contradiction to the spirit of the Moscow treaty banning nuclear tests."

The statement by the official Soviet news agency said:

"Soviet leading circles cannot but take account of the dangerous consequences of the provision of nuclear weapons to the Federal (West) German Republic and take into consideration the need to insure the safety of the Soviet Union and its allies in this event."

"The dangerous steps being undertaken by NATO cannot but have an adverse effect on the still informal shoots of mutual understandings and trust between states."

The statement was promptly read over Moscow Radio, indicating the importance attached to it.

"The conclusion of the treaty on banning nuclear weapon tests in the atmosphere, in outer space and under water," it said, "created a more favorable atmosphere for searching for solution of other unsettled problems in the interests of removing the threat of war and organizing businesslike friendly cooperation between states."

The Soviet government is trying to promote general disarmament at the present session of United Nations, it added, and has exchanged views with Britain and the United States aimed at easing international tension.

"And yet the NATO countries, as reported in the press, have begun a new round of talks to work out a specific military-technical plan for the establishment of a multilateral NATO nuclear force in the form of a fleet of surface vessels armed with missiles with nuclear warheads."

Drought Crop Loss To Reach Millions

CHICAGO (AP)—The drought belt extending from Texas to New England remained explosively dry over the weekend as the effect on the nation's economy deepened.

Scattered rains brought scant relief to some spots, but the loss to crops and property from the dryness and accompanying fires is expected to run into the millions of dollars.

Fires have burned across thousands of acres of forests and woodlands. Pastures have turned brown. Wells and farm ponds have gone dry. Water is being rationed in some communities. The shortage of water has been felt in some of the major cities in the East.

Delays Seeding
The drought has delayed the seeding of winter wheat in the Great Plains. Livestock producers in many areas have marketed their cattle early because of shortage of feed and water. Milk production in many areas was far below seasonal levels.

Officials in several eastern and Midwest states have ordered the closing of many forests and woodlands. Hunting and fishing have been banned. Although light rain fell in central sections of the nation over the weekend, Weather Bureau officials said heavy rains are needed.

A storm off the Atlantic Coast became a hurricane Sunday night. The hurricane, named Ginny, was accompanied by winds up to 85 m.p.h. A Weather Bureau forecaster said the storm, about 90 miles south-southeast off Cape Hatteras, N.C., could bring more wind than rain and thus increase the fire hazard in the parched Eastern forests.

On the bright side of the dismal weather picture, the nation's major winter vegetable and citrus growing regions—Florida, California and the lower Rio Grande Valley—reported favorable growing conditions. Irrigation from wells provides sufficient moisture for crops in the Rio Grande and Florida.

Canada Air Kills Fog, But Winds Fan Forest Fires

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cool air from Canada raced across the state today and drove away a haze of smog that had been hampering firefighting efforts in New York's tinder-dry woodlands.

At the same time however, the cool air mass brought increased winds that served to fan the forest flames. And there was still no sign of the drenching rain needed to break the drought that has made this the driest year on record in the state.

The Weather Bureau said that winds of up to 18 miles an hour could cause rapid spread of the fires and predicted more sunny, dry weather—although turning a bit cooler.

No Hope For Rain
Hopes that Hurricane Ginny, idling off North Carolina, would bring rain to the state were dim, the bureau said.

"It offers very little hope at this time of bringing any rain to the state, the bureau said today. Smog that began developing (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Seas Are 40 to 50 Feet High

Communications Cut, Travel Halted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hurricane Ginny raked the North Carolina coast with gale force winds today and whipped up heavy seas as it remained centered 100 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras. One ship with 10 men aboard was reported missing. Another was in trouble.

The Weather Bureau reported that Ginny was expected to move east northeast about 5 m.p.h. during the next 12 hours with no drop in strength.

90 M.P.H. Around Center
The storm spun 90 m.p.h. winds out for 60 miles around its center and reached out with gale force winds for 250 miles to the north and east and 170 miles to the south and west.

Waves of 25 to 30 feet were reported lashing the Diamond Shoals lightship off Cape Hatteras.

Rescue planes and a Coast Guard cutter sped into the storm area in search of a commissioned Navy picket ship, the Foggy, with an officer and nine enlisted men aboard.

The vessel, formerly a destroyer-escort, was being towed by the tug Salish when the tow line parted 45 miles southeast of Cape Lookout.

The Foggy has no power of its own and hasn't been heard from since the line parted.

Seas 50 Feet High
The Navy said the seas in that area are running 40 to 50 feet high.

The Salish was also reported having difficulty steering in the high seas, fierce winds and driving rain.

Winds buffeting the coast cut off telephone communications between the mainland and North Carolina's string of sandy islands known as the Outer Banks. There was no indication so far, officials said, that residents of the often storm-swept island would have to be evacuated.

The Navy stood watch at its big Norfolk, Va., base to evacuate personnel if need be in the face of Ginny's winds.

CD, Agencies on Alert
Civil defense and other emergency agencies were on alert in the area.

North Carolina officials suspended operations of ferries at Oregon and Hatteras inlets early Sunday because of rough water and high winds.

A partially completed bridge across Oregon Inlet was opened to allow motorists to leave the Outer Banks.

During the night the Weather Bureau posted hurricane warnings for the Hatteras vicinity and ordered a hurricane watch for the coast area from Nags Head to Cape Lookout, N.C.

Gale warnings flew from Block Island south to Myrtle Beach, S.C., and over the southern Chesapeake Bay.

22 Gravestones Are Overtured In Montrepose

Local police over the weekend received a second report this year of damaging vandalism in a local cemetery.

Twenty-two gravestones were reported overturned and otherwise damaged in Montrepose Cemetery. Police received a report of damage in the cemetery Saturday morning, and another early Sunday afternoon, apparently referred to the same vandalism.

Officer Harry Short made a preliminary investigation of damage and his report was turned over to the detective division.

Lt. Lemuel Howard, who heads the detective division, today noted that persons involved in such vandalism are subject to prosecution for a felony.

Nearly the same amount of damage was done in St. Mary's Cemetery early in June when ghoulish vandals overturned and damaged 20 tombstones. Investigation of that destruction also continues.

Six Are Killed In Area Traffic, Among 15 in State

Six area residents — two in Ulster County — were among 15 who lost their lives in traffic accidents during the weekend in New York State.

Two persons were fatally injured in a two-car collision reported Saturday near Ellenville; a Tannersville man was killed near Hunter in Greene County, and three Milton residents lost their lives on Route 9W in Orange County.

Stanley B. Showers, 26, of Tannersville, was killed in a one-car accident Saturday afternoon on Route 214 near Hunter in Greene County.

State Police at Leeds station said Showers' car left the road and overturned. They said the driver died from a fractured skull.

Three Milton residents were fatally injured Saturday night and five others injured in a two-car crash on Route 9W about 1,000 feet south of the Balmville Road. The operators of both cars were arrested and samples of blood taken to determine alcohol content, State Police at the Newburgh station reported.

The dead are Eloise Whitted, 31, Box 99, Milton, wife of the operator of one car and two of their children, Louise, 3, and Christopher, 2.

The accident happened about 10:30 p. m. One car was operated by Strange H. Whitted, 41, of Milton and the other by Carlos Latana, 87 Broad Street, Newburgh.

In St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh are:

Diana Whitted, 8, head injuries and internal injuries, critical.

Harold Whitted, 6, facial injuries and injuries to hand, fair.

O'Neil Whitted, 5, internal injuries and lacerations of fingers, fair.

Strange Whitted, 41, operator, lacerations of scalp, forehead, good.

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson, today issued a verdict of accidental death in the case of two persons killed in a two-car collision about 1:45 a. m. Saturday on Route 52 a mile and a half west of Ellenville.

He said Rose Ann Hooley, 19, of Clearwater, Fla., one of the drivers, died from compound skull fractures and extensive lacerations of the brain; and Harold Schoonmaker, 20, of Kerhonkson, passenger in her car, died from aspiration of blood from scalp and facial injuries, brain contusions and multiple other causes.

Meanwhile, John Tilford Shelton Jr., 34, of the Nevele Hotel, driver of the other car, was reported in fair condition today at St. Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie. He suffered a fractured left elbow, multiple face cuts, abrasions of the arms and legs and a possible skull fracture. He was treated at Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, and later transferred to the Poughkeepsie Hospital.

Miss Emma Rose Hill, 21, also of the Nevele Hotel, passenger in the Shelton car, was discharged after treatment at the Ellenville hospital. She suffered multiple face cuts, contusions and abrasions of the legs and cuts to the hands.

Coroner Chipp issued his verdict after autopsies.

State Police at Ellenville said the Hooley vehicle was traveling east and the Shelton car west when they collided. They said Miss Hooley and Schoonmaker were ejected from their car. Shelton was thrown clear of his wrecked car while Miss Hill told police she crawled from the vehicle after it flipped over two or three times following the collision.

The Associated Press reported a 50-year-old woman hit by an automobile as she was boarding a bus and a pilot lowering his plane for a night landing were among the 17 deaths in the state. The traffic toll was 12 deaths for the period from 6 p. m. Friday through midnight Sunday. Two persons died in other types of accidents.

clear force at a meeting with former Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain in Nassau, the Bahamas, in mid-December. The meeting was called to discuss U.S. discontinuance of its Skybolt missile program upon which the British had been relying for defense.

Kennedy offered the British Polaris missiles as part of an over-all NATO force of ships and submarines armed with nuclear missiles with nuclear warheads.

But since their meeting the British have turned cold toward the nuclear force. France has held back support. West Germany is the only major European power to give the plan its full backing.

The idea of the nuclear force was to modernize NATO in an age of push-button nuclear warfare.

Ruby Man Injured

A Ruby motorist was injured in a one-car accident about 3:15 a. m. Sunday on Sheehan Lane between the Ruby Road and Old King's Highway near Ruby, Thomas Dachenhausen, 20, of Ruby, told State Police that he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car and pulled over to the side of the road, where his car struck a utility pole. He was taken to Kingston Hospital where he was treated for a broken nose. Emergency crews from Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., were called to repair damage to the power pole.

Quench Trailer Fire, Other Car Arriving at Scene

In case you ever have a fire in your car, make sure you plan to have a fire company available.

That's the way it happened — unwittingly of course — to a British motorist Saturday night on the Thruway south of Kingston.

It seems that Spring Lake volunteers were called to a tractor trailer fire near mile post 93.5 directly under the Route 209 overpass. While fire fighters under direction of Chief Clayton Elmendorf battled the trailer fire, fire police placed themselves strategically along the superhighway to warn approaching traffic to slow down.

One of the fire policemen, sharp-eyed Herbert Greenwald, noticed something unusual about an approaching 1954 Cadillac — it was on fire. He flagged down the motorist, Maurice Kagen of London, England, and told him to get out. Volunteer firemen from companies responding to the tractor-trailer fire then proceeded to put out the car fire. They said an oil leak apparently reached the bottom of the car's muffler, causing the bottom of the vehicle to catch fire.

Tankers from Hurley and Ulster Hose 5 helped extinguish the trailer fire. Fire officials said heavy machinery, a generator, cement mixer and other equipment on the trailer, owned by an Orange, N. J. contracting firm, were demolished in the fire. They said the fire was apparently started by friction which resulted from a flat tire. Fire extinguishers managed to save the tractor by detaching it from the trailer.

Location, Not

It is apparent that they were never interested in the slightest degree in any area on the west bank of the Hudson River. It is understood that their brand is most popular in New England.

Consequently, as a matter of simple geography, they desire closest possible proximity to that market without an intervening river barrier and the consequent added time and expense of crossing into New England.

"For this reason, it can be assumed, the Ruppert interests declined to enter into conversation with Kingston promoters of a local site for their brewery. There is no knowledge of any investigation of local land or water availability to date.

Constant Tries Made

"Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce daily makes contacts for new industries designed to improve the business climate of the area. Some are successful and many, for a wide variety of reasons, bear no fruit."

It was reported early in October that the Jacob Ruppert Brewing Co. of New York City had obtained an option on a 50-acre tract including a large lake in the Town of Carmel, Putnam County, as a site for its proposed $21 million brewery.

The report indicated that it would take two years to complete the new brewery and the new facility would employ about 1,200 people.

An authoritative source in the Ruppert organization revealed at that time that the firm was apparently not considering any site on the west shore since much of its distribution is east of the river.

Arlington Schools Closed, Lack of Air

There was no school in the Arlington School District today after it was found someone had let the air out of 132 tires on 22 buses used in transporting the Dutchess County students to school.

It was reported the buses were in good shape at 1 p. m. Sunday afternoon but when it came time to operate the outdoor stored buses today it was found the air had been let out of the tires.

Drought Crop

ern Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont remained critical. The fire danger was accelerated by high winds which accompanied the Atlantic storm that lashed the North Carolina coast and moved northward.

Forests Hard Hit

Thousands of acres of forest and fields have burned in upstate New York in the searing days since Oct. 1 and the Weather Bureau in Albany reported that the last 21 months, since Jan. 1, 1962, was the driest such period in the records of the bureau.

All woodlands and fields in New York State were closed to the public. Hunting, fishing and outdoor fires were banned.

The New York health department warned that the widespread smog, especially in the Hudson Valley, could cause trouble for persons suffering from respiratory and heart ailments.

Pennsylvania was especially hard hit by the continued parching. The Weather Bureau said no immediate relief was in sight for the drought-weary state. Fires continued to break out—34 of them Saturday—across the state's timberlands.

67 Disaster Counties

More than half of Pennsylvania's 67 counties were declared disaster areas or were applying for disaster area status.

Hunters, farmers and others using the outdoors in Mississippi were warned not to set any kind of spark.

Agriculture sources in Alabama said the state "was in a crisis and in a hazardous condition." In some areas farmers were unable to plow the dry earth.

Rainless timberlands in Louisiana faced the greatest fire hazard since 1952 when 400,000 acres burned. Tennessee passed its 22nd day without rain.

At Norvin Green State Forest in northern New Jersey, a 2,900-acre fire was "nearly under control," but at East River Mountain, near Bluefield, Va., 100 men fought a fire which had burned more than 700 acres since Thursday.

Will Open Bids Soon on Lucas Spur to Rt. 209

Bids for construction of a section of Lucas Avenue Turnpike from the Four Corners at High-Falls to Route 209 at Accord will be opened in November.

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson has been informed by Ulster County Superintendent of Highways Roland Green that bids will be opened for construction of that highway from High Falls south to 209. The road will be constructed under the Secondary Federal Aid Highway Program.

The Ulster County Highway Department made the survey, prepared the design, contract estimates and secured the right of way. The county will also assume the cost of maintenance. Under the program the Federal and State governments will share the cost of construction.

The highway will be a two lane macadam road, designed according to federal specifications. Estimated cost is $1,500,000.

Funeral Service Held Saturday For H. A. Lewis

Funeral services for Howard Augustus Lewis, 72, civic and industrial leader, who died early Wednesday at Benedictine Hospital, were held at the Flatbush Reformed Church Saturday, 2 p. m. The church was filled to capacity by friends and business associates.

Among those in attendance at the services were Mayor John J. Schwenk and city officials including members of the Executive Advisory Committee on Urban Renewal of which Mr. Lewis was chairman.

Also attending were Richard E. Purdy of American Motors Sales Corp., of which Mr. Lewis was a retired vice president and treasurer; A. M. Robert Service, Retired Teacher Succumbs at 78

Robert J. Service, 78, retired Kingston teacher and Ulster County probation officer, died Sunday at his Stone Ridge residence.

A teacher for 48 years, Mr. Service had been associated with the Kingston School system 35 years prior to his retirement. He had taught in New Jersey, Connecticut and rural Ulster County schools also.

A 1904 graduate of Kingston Academy he was a graduate of Pratt Institute of Brooklyn, New York University and had attended Rutgers and Columbia University. Mr. Service was on the professional educational research committee for Phi Delta Kappa of New York University.

Was Vocational Director

Mr. Service was first director of the vocational education in the local school system and was principal of the continuation school for 18 years. He was associated with the Ulster County Probation Department and served as chief probation officer from 1922 to 1940.

Much of his work outside of education was in the field of discipline and for some time he was associated with the New Jersey prison system. He had studied with Dr. Thayer, state probation officer in administration and had authored several works on education and discipline.

Charter Kiwanian

Mr. Service was a member of Kingston Lodge No. 10, F&AM; Marbetown Reformed Church of Stone Ridge; Stone Ridge Subordinate and Pomona Granges. He was also a charter member of Kingston Kiwanis.

He and his wife, the former Mary Coles, celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary Sept. 1. They were married by the late Dr. Frank B. Seelye, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church.

Surviving in addition to his wife are three daughters, Mrs. Philip (Margaret) Cox Jr., of Anchorage, Alaska, Mrs. Croswell (Elizabeth) Moore, of Newburgh, and Mrs. Frederick (Janet) Baker Jr., of Dunderberg, N. J.; a brother, Jesse Service of Midland Park, N. J. and eight grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at the A. Carr & Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, Tuesday 2 p. m. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery, Stone Ridge. Friends may call at the funeral home today 7 to 9 p. m.

by was found a pocket secretary which had been dropped. It belonged to Robert Briordi and was apparently dropped when the trailer was taken. County Investigator Thomas Mayone began a search of the area for the trailer.

About 8:30 a. m. Sunday William Saura of Pine Grove, Saugerties, notified Investigator Mayone that a trailer was parked on the mountain near Pine Grove and a boy had been seen in the area. With Town of Saugerties Police Herbert Hommel, Investigator Mayone began a search of the area to check for the trailer.

Find Guns in Car

On the way up the mountain road in the vicinity of the Woodstock town dump, they encountered a 1962 Chevrolet car with New York registration plate which was "hung up" on rocks on the rough highway. The operator had apparently stalled while attempting to back down the road. In the glove compartment were found six pistols and one pistol was under the seat of the car. It was learned later the guns had been taken from the Numrich Arms plant on Route 28 at West Hurley.

A search was begun for the operator of the car after New York people had notified the sheriff's men that they had driven a boy to a Woodstock garage after he was reported being stuck on the mountain and in need of help to free his car.

Briordi Located

With Deputy Sheriffs Carl Swenson and Vincent Vandemark and Town of Saugerties Special Police John Pavlak and Anthony Ventriglia investigation of vacant houses in the area was begun. When it was learned a boy had been searching for help to get the car from the woods, County Investigator Mayone and Special Police Officer John Pavlak located Briordi on the Glasco Turnpike en route back to the trailer. He wore a .32 caliber automatic in his belt. He was arrested after questioning and admitted entrance to a Bearsville home where an electric heater, a gas camp stove, radio and other articles were missing. He also admitted, according to Investigator Mayone that he had taken the license plate found on the Chevrolet from a car in the Rudy Baumgarten garage and attached it over the New Jersey plate. The car was owned by Jerry Bakunas of North Bergen, N. J., who came to Kingston today and recovered his property.

Held for Grand Jury

Before Justice of the Peace Alton Boyce of West Hurley, Briordi was held for grand jury action on a charge of first degree grand larceny.

Meanwhile State police at Lake Katrine had been called into the investigation and Senior Investigator James Kaljian assisted in the investigation.

Investigator Mayone reported that a warrant charging third degree burglary would also be issued and the New Jersey authorities will seek a grand larceny warrant for the theft.

Questioning of Briordi was being continued today in regard to his movements after the North Bergen car was allegedly stolen.

Package Stores Limited, Sales Have Been Rising

NEW YORK (AP)—Although New York State has been limiting the number of liquor stores for 15 years, the amount of liquor sold by such stores for drinking at home and other places has been rising, a state study group reports.

The report said drinking has dropped off in restaurants and clubs—on which there is no state limitation of licenses.

The Moreland Act Commission is studying the Alcoholic Beverage Control laws made by the report public Sunday. The commission, headed by former Federal Judge Lawrence E. Walsh, will begin public hearings here Oct. 30 on proposals to revise the liquor laws.

Suffers Burns

Theodore DeGraff, 14, of 31 Third Avenue, was treated at the Benedictine Hospital Saturday afternoon for first degree burns of the right hand. A report to police at 4:15 p. m. said the burns resulted from ignited gunpowder.

Garage Destroyed At Kerhonkson; Woods Ravaged

Fires destroyed about 300 square feet of land early today and ravaged a three-story commercial garage Saturday afternoon in the southern part of the county.

Tillson volunteers under Chief Alvin Winfield, responded to a brush fire at 3:45 a. m. today on the River Road between Springtown Road and Route 32, Tillson. Thirty men and three pieces of apparatus battled the blaze to keep it from spreading further.

James Hicks, Fire Prevention Week chairman for the Tillson volunteers, today urged firemen to call a halt to outside burning in the area covered by the fire district as drought conditions continued.

The other fire which struck the Mance Ford garage at Kerhonkson about 2:40 p. m. Saturday, destroyed a car and contents in the three-story, brick block building.

Fire Chief Emmanuel Samuels, Ellenville, said that Accord and Wawarsing volunteers also responded. He said the blaze, which was apparently caused by a defective parts washer, destroyed a car which was on the main floor and the entire contents with the exception of the parts department.

The building, located on Route 209 just south of Kerhonkson, is owned by Edward Mance. There was no estimate of damage, although the property reportedly was insured.

Missing Vessel Is Sighted in Flight Off Hurricane Plane

NEW YORK (AP)—A heavy hurricane hunter aircraft sighted a decommissioned destroyer escort missing since Saturday night in 50-foot hurricane whipped seas, the Navy announced.

A spokesman said the Fogg was sighted by the WV2 aircraft 150 miles east of Cape Fear, N.C. The spokesman said the ship was upright but he said nothing about the 10 men aboard.

The ship broke loose from the tug towing it about 11:30 p. m. Saturday en route to Mayport, Fla. from Norfolk, Va., to join the reserve fleet.

At fleet headquarters the Navy said there was no new word from the tug Salish which was towing the Fogg when the towline parted Saturday night. A spokesman said the Salish is equipped with radio which has a range of only five or six miles.

When last heard from the heavy tug was having difficulty steering in the high seas and fierce wind.

Canada Air Kills

daily over the weekend added another problem to the burdens borne by rangers, firemen and volunteers toiling around - the clock in the forests.

The State Conservation Department said the smog made it difficult to spot smoke from new fires. In some areas the department had to ground planes used to drop water on fires.

Causes Accident

Smog also was blamed for an accident that closed the north-bound lane of the Northway for a few hours this morning in Colonies, an Albany suburb. An automobile and a tractor-trailer collided, and the truck burst into flames.

Meanwhile, the total of fires raging in the forests Upstate reached a new high of 101 Sunday—the largest number in a single day since the worst outbreak in the state's history began three weeks ago. Most of the 101 were persistent fires that flared sporadically.

Whale of a Nibble

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two brothers fishing for salmon snagged a big whale.

Frank and Joseph Balestreri had cast many lines from their 35-foot trawler off San Francisco when the mammal surfaced beside them.

Tangled in the lines, the whale snapped them and one cut Frank's cheek.

"That mad whale got away with a lot of hooks in him," Joseph said.

Rockefeller Steps Up Attacks on Goldwater

By ROBERT T. GRAY
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller is stepping up his attacks on Sen. Barry Goldwater as the time approaches the governor's formal announcement that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for president.

Announcement day is expected by mid-November.

Goldwater and Rockefeller long have been considered the leading competitors for the GOP nomination, although neither has said publicly that he wants it.

Rockefeller stopped short of announcing his plans several times on a weekend trip to New Hampshire, during which he began an uphill fight to win that state's key presidential preference primary next March 10.

New Hampshire's 14-vote delegation will be one of the smallest at the nominating convention but its preferential primary is the earliest in the nation and the winner reaps an important psychological advantage with nationwide publicity.

Rockefeller remarked several times during the weekend that he knew he was running behind in public opinion polls, but said he found that a reason to work harder rather than quit.

His New Hampshire visit was marked by an unusually strong attack on Goldwater, who now is considered the front-runner for the nomination.

Rockefeller charged that the Arizona senator and conservative leader had adopted positions "not in the best interest of the American people" by advocating U.S. withdrawal from the United Nations and abolition of foreign aid, and by opposing activities of the World Bank.

At the same time, Rockefeller pressed his challenge for a series of debates with Goldwater.

The senator has turned down the invitation, saying Republicans should unite to fight Democrats.

The overall atmosphere of the trip to New Hampshire was that of a political campaign, despite the governor's insistence that he has not decided definitely whether to run.

During the two-day visit, the governor held a news conference that drew nearly 100 newspaper, radio, television and magazine reporters, delivered two major political speeches, attended a football game at Dartmouth, his alma mater, met more than 4,000 persons at a reception and conferred privately with leaders of his New Hampshire supporters.

He returned home by way of Vermont, where he met Sunday with 35 Republican leaders of that state. A Rockefeller spokesman said that they conferred for one and a half hours but that the governor made no direct appeal for support.

The Rockefeller strategy at this point is to travel widely, meet GOP leaders, outline his political views, display his campaign techniques and introduce his wife, who had a prominent part in the New England weekend.

The Rockefeller marriage last May 4 has been one of the most discussed in modern politics, and it cost Rockefeller his leading position in the competition for the nomination and remains a major handicap, because both had been married previously and divorced.

In bidding for the presidency, Rockefeller would be challenging the tradition that no divorced man ever has gained the White House.

Mrs. Rockefeller's role in his campaign was demonstrated Saturday when the governor was given a large ceremonial key to Hanover.

Rockefeller said he wanted to give it to "someone who has never been to Hanover before. I want to give the key to Happy." He then escorted his wife to the front of the platform and, in front of thousands in the center of Hanover, she accepted the key, smiled and waved to the cheering crowd.

The Rockefellers spent Saturday night at the home of his brother Laurence in Woodstock, Vt.

Tuesday, Rockefeller will set off on another western tour. He will fly to Salt Lake City, then continue to California for speeches in San Francisco on Wednesday and in Los Angeles on Thursday.

Legislators Would Quit Under Ban Of Law Practice

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A wave of resignations in the Legislature would result if a ban were placed on legislators appearing as attorneys before state regulatory agencies, the chairman of the Assembly Ethics Committee says.

Assemblyman Donald A. added, however, that "chances definitely are in favor of some amendment" to the Legislature's code of ethics during the 1964 session.

And, he said Saturday night, any change would make the code "more stringent."

The proposed ban "would force many members of the Legislature to resign," Campbell added.

The proposal to bar the lawyer-legislators from practicing before regulatory bodies is one of several advanced by proponents of stricter rules of conduct for all legislators.

Lawyers, including Campbell, constitute a majority of the members of the Senate and Assembly. The present ethics code places no restrictions on their activities for private clients. Many have argued cases before state agencies.

The proposal for tightening the code came in the aftermath of newspaper stories describing some of the private financial dealings of State Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino. Both have denied any impropriety in the dealings.

Campbell commented about the proposals for a tighter code during a television program ("Speak for Yourself," WAST). He said he opposed a proposal that the top four legislative posts be made full-time jobs.

As for a tighter code, he said that "putting something in the law won't make a man honest if he's dishonest, but it is well to have guideposts."

FINAL KREBIOZEN BLOW

The champions of Krebiozen have now suffered what ought to be the final blow to their claims that the drug is effective against cancer. The sorry business of charging desperate cancer victims high prices for a cheap, common drug had been previously exposed. Now the coup de grace has been administered by a committee of physicians and scientists which investigated scientific aspects of the matter at the request of the National Cancer Institute.

The progression of events leaves no reasonable doubt that Krebiozen is useless in the treatment of cancer, despite claims made for it by its sponsors over a period of several years. Interstate shipment of the substance has been illegal since last July 12. Early in September, the Food and Drug Administration disclosed that tests had shown Krebiozen to be nothing but creatine, a common chemical produced in the blood. Now the final step, investigation of cases in which benefit was claimed from treatment with Krebiozen, has been taken.

Those who studied the cases were no ordinary committee; they are men expert in cancer research, diagnosis and treatment—men from leading medical schools and institutions, as well as private physicians and surgeons. After a careful review, the committee expressed the unanimous opinion that Krebiozen "is ineffective as an anti-tumor agent," and recommended that no clinical trial of the drug be undertaken.

This finally sets in rational perspective a matter that has long been the subject of controversy highly charged with emotion. All that remains is a legal determination of whether the sponsors of Krebiozen violated the Food and Drug Act.

PHONING ON THE RUN

It is often noted that ours is an age when science keeps catching up with science fiction. Another instance of this occurred the other day when the Chromalloy Corp. announced that a portable wireless telephone extension will soon be available.

Anyone carrying such a device will be able to receive calls made to a home or office telephone even though he may be several miles away. The "Pocketphone," smaller than a pack of cigarettes, will emit a buzz to signal an incoming call. The bearer of the gadget presses a button, thus sending a radio impulse that releases the contact buttons on his telephone, and takes the call. He can even originate calls through a private switchboard.

So before long—a production model is to be test marketed within a few months—a busy man will be able to take calls right away wherever he may be, and the spectacle of citizens raptly conversing with hand-held gadgets will become more or less common. Whether or not this will be a good thing, who can say? But the world is sounding more and more like the world of Buck Rogers.

Walter Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, says the national economy will hit $600 billion early next year. If too many people don't start to economize, that is.

TO WAX ROMANTIC

Fall is such a flamboyant and exhilarating time of year that it's strange to realize that its bright colors are the result of a negative process.

The variegated hues that transform deciduous trees into silent flame, rather than being daubed on by some "master painter from the faraway hills," are caused by the end of the trees' production of chlorophyll.

As the green of chlorophyll disappears, the colors of the carotinoids come to the fore. There are two carotinoids, or pigments. One, called "carotin," is responsible for the dominant orange. The other, "xanthophyll," produces yellow.

The reds and purples spattered throughout the autumn foliage are caused by the anthocyanins, which form in the cell sap.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

THE WATER BOY GOT THE PRIZE

I don't know much about the Nobel Peace Prize judges' personal or social predilections, but on the face of it their collective journalistic sense, to say nothing of their logic, is absolutely wacky. Here they've gone and handed the Nobel Peace Prize for 1962 to Dr. Linus Pauling, the California chemist who had previously won a Nobel award for his scientific attainments. Dr. Pauling's labors in the cause of peace have consisted mainly of picketing and signing petitions hither and yon calling for suspension of nuclear tests. The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee has taken a dim view of some of the company that Dr. Pauling has kept in his labors in behalf of peace. He refused to identify persons who had helped him circulate petitions to the UN calling for a cessation of nuclear bomb tests. This was Dr. Pauling's right under the Constitution, and I believe in the Constitution.

What I don't believe in is this business of giving a man a prize when he has merely filled the role of water boy for a team of star players. I can think of thirty or forty people who did more to bring about the ban on nuclear testing than Dr. Pauling ever did. There's Bernard Baruch, for example, who, ages ago, pointed out the danger of permitting the two great post-war powers, the U. S. and Soviet Russia, to test the atom around without regard to inhibitions. There's Dwight Eisenhower himself, who wanted to crown his labors as President by negotiating a test ban with proper inspection safeguards. There's President John F. Kennedy, who adapted the Eisenhower proposal to a period in which secrecy in testing is no longer easy. There's Averell Harriman, who did Kennedy's negotiating in Moscow. There's Republican Senator Ev Dirksen, who ranged a majority of his own party in the Senate behind the Test-Ban Treaty. Finally, there's Nikita Khrushchev, who didn't need Dr. Pauling to tell him that atomic fall-out can penetrate the skin of a muzhik in the Russian Kuban as easily as it can fall on the caribou meat consumed by an eskimo in northern Alaska.

If the test-ban is the test of peaceful accomplishment in the contemporary world, clearly the Nobel Prize should have been split among such major team players as Baruch, Eisenhower, Kennedy, Harriman, Dirksen and Khrushchev, with Nikita possibly getting half the money for doing all the work on the Soviet side of the fence. But, since it is this column's contention that wars spring less from armaments than they do from major disagreements that cannot be composed by negotiation, I think the Nobel Committee would have been just as much offbase in giving the prize to Baruch, Kennedy, Khrushchev, or any person as they were in giving it to water boy Pauling.

Peace being a state of mind, a disposition, the Nobel Committee ought, sometime, to use a little journalistic enterprise in uncovering men and women who really do something to promote amity between peoples. I can think of one man, far less flashy than Dr. Pauling, who has done wonders over the past fifteen years to get individuals in various nations to love, or at least to respect, each other. This man is the 75-year-old Stephen Galatti, the Director General of the American Field Service, an organization that turned its attention from ambulance driving in World War II to a valiant post-war program of bringing foreign students to the United States for their last high school year and placing them in sympathetic American families throughout the country. Since the start of this program in 1947, more than 13,000 boys and girls from sixty-six nations have come to the United States and returned home with strong ties to our country. And, doing the same sort of thing the other way round, more than 8,300 Americans have gone abroad to live with foreign families for a summer or for a final year of high school education.

Mr. Galatti, who drove an ambulance in World War I for the original American Field Service, is a member of the famous Harvard Class of 1910, which includes such intellectual luminaries as Walter Lippmann and Stuart Chase. At the age of 75 he puts in a twelve-hour day at his student exchange job, making the acquaintance of each and every boy and girl who comes from Finland, Malagasy, Laos or wherever to study in this country. Mr. Galatti gets a taken subsidy from the State Department, but the vast bulk of the money he needs to run his service—it comes to $700 per student per year—has to be raised by his own evangelistic efforts.

It's dollars to doughnuts that the Nobel Prize Committee never heard of Mr. Galatti. But then, he never marched in a picket line.

Halloween Precautions
Make Night Safe, Sane

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If you want a safe and sane Halloween for your children, discourage them from trick-or-treating in masks. If the mask should slip over the child's eyes when he is excited and running it might cause a bad fall. Use grease paint instead.

Ghosts and witches dressed in white are easier for motorists to see than those in dark or black costumes. Better still, cut out large stars, crescent moons, or skulls and crossbones from flourescent tape and fasten them securely on the costume. It is a good idea to use similar decorations on the trick-or-treat bag.

Costumes should fit tightly enough that they will not catch on fences or other objects and cause a fall. Long dresses or robes that a child could trip over are also to be avoided.

If a Halloween party is being held indoors you should closely supervise any games or activities that require the use of lighted candles. And, while you're about it, flameproof all costumes and decorations by dipping them in a mixture of 3 quarts of water, 7 ounces of borax and 3 ounces of boric acid powder.

You yourself should be especially careful when driving in residential sections on Halloween. Children are unpredictable and don't always obey the rules they've been taught, so you can't afford to take any chances.

If you are a homeowner you can help to eliminate hazards by keeping your outdoor lights on. This will make it less likely that a child will trip or fall over steps, shrubs, bird baths or other objects. Keep your dog inside.

A minor hazard and one that will probably be hardest to control is that a child who finds himself suddenly swamped with fruit, popcorn and candy will eat too much. But an upset stomach is not so serious, and it may teach him a lesson he will have to learn for himself anyway.

Q—My 6-year-old daughter is losing all her hair. Could this be due to a fever of 103 she had with a recent cold?

A—Your daughter could lose all her hair temporarily after a fever of 104 or 105 which persisted for eight to 10 days. This is hardly likely with a cold even though severe. Too much vitamin A in the diet has been known to cause loss of hair but this is associated with other signs and symptoms of acute illness. In any case, the child's hair is almost sure to grow out again soon.

In some plants, such as beets, they are visible throughout the season. In others, such as apples, the anthocyanins appear at ripening time.

Combine these newly released oranges, yellows, reds and purples with the remaining greens and the browns of dying leaf cells and you have autumn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Under Secretary of State Averell Harriman, commenting on his recent conversations with Russia's Chairman Nikita Khrushchev said, "He acts now like a politician. He acts like Lyndon Johnson."

This flippant drew criticisms from the vice president's admirers. But Harriman got out of it neatly by saying, "Lyndon Johnson is the most effective political campaigner I know."

EX-PRESIDENT Harry S. Truman was in the audience when Austrian Foreign Minister Bruno Kreisky made a speech before a luncheon club in Kansas City, discussing the problems of a neutral country in the cold war.

After it was over, H.S.T. came up to the microphone and said, for everyone to hear, "That's the best I've ever heard of a speech I've heard since 1945."

SENATE MINORITY leader Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., has a stock double-talk answer when asked about his views concerning the moon race.

"There once was a question on a mail carrier exam: 'How far is the moon from the earth?' One fellow didn't know, so he thought for a while and finally answered, 'Just far enough so it won't interfere with me and the duty of carrying mail.' He got the job."

LOS ALAMOS Scientific Laboratory has been trying to find a more docile and friendly monkey for research work in the U.S. space program.

The type they'd been using for space experiments, the Macaca mulatta, had been a problem. Handling him, said one scientist, was a "traumatic" experience for both. Laboratory men frequently ended up with nipped fingers.

A new monkey, the Macaca speciosa, reportedly displaying a "remarkable docility," is gradually being worked into the experiments.

A MAJOR FUROR in the Pentagon for the past year is over news management as practiced by Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs.

Sometimes this censorship and news management have been achieved by "classifying" embarrassing documents—marking them "secret" or "confidential."

Now a Pentagon wag—high on Sylvester's own staff—has put two signs on the wall back of his desk:

WHEN YOU MANAGE NEWS
DO IT ACCORDING TO THE

STATE DEPARTMENT fan mail has its ups and downs, but this is a high period. Excerpts from typical letters:

"We need a mental health program in the White House and State Department."

"It's clear Soviet appeasers are having a field day."
One of the persistent rumors: there are thousands of Chinese Communist troops in Mexico, poised to attack the United States. Where this one started nobody knows, but it has spread by word of mouth to many parts of the country.

Every such letter gets a firm denial in reply.
One woman correspondent, worried about the Viet Nam situation, closed her letter with the admission, "I realize that if I were living in a Communist country, I would never have dared write to my government."
Comments one official: "We don't lose them all."

WHEN A POWER failure caused a temporary blackout in the State Department the other day, Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., observed:

"It probably didn't cause much trouble. Some observers claim that our foreign policy seems to operate in the dark all of the time."

Developing Cheaper Course For America's Part in U.N.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — A major change in American military and foreign policy is under way. It is developing gradually. The objective is to maintain allied unity and yet decrease the expense for the American people with respect to the maintenance of U. S. troops in Europe, which costs about $1 billion a year. This country has spent at least $50 billion for the defense of Europe since World War II ended. There are still more than 1,000,000 Americans — soldiers and their families — stationed overseas.

The first step in changing policy comes this week in the form of a test whereby an armored division of 15,000 men is airlifted from the U. S. to Germany within 72 hours. This, reticently, might mean that American troops could be withdrawn from Europe and dependence placed hereafter on the quick transport of divisions by air. But that's not the present purpose. It is rather to demonstrate that, if the Western Allies build up their own troop divisions, the U. S. could be depended upon for prompt reinforcements in an emergency. Virtually all of the American Divisions on duty in Europe might then be withdrawn, but this isn't the present intention.

The main idea now is to persuade Western Europe, which has 250,000,000 population and a booming economy, that the time is at hand to begin taking over more of the military load and expense of the U. S.

What does all this mean in the face of the growing realization that a nuclear war means mutual suicide? First, when the treaty mandating certain nuclear tests was signed recently, the military strategists did not stop thinking of the prospect of war. Second, they became even more concerned over "limited war," a term applied to the use of conventional forces and weapons.

There is a realistic recognition of the fact that recurring friction is potentially capable of producing armed conflict. The problem will be to keep "limited war" from becoming "unlimited." Gen. Eisenhower, during his two terms as President of the U. S., considered preparations for "limited war" as secondary and emphasized instead a buildup of nuclear weapons. Today, that result has been fully achieved, and there's a nuclear stalemate in the world.

Gen. Eisenhower said last week that American forces in Western Europe now could be reduced to one division. The Pentagon disagrees. Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell Gilpatric, in a speech Saturday, declared that while American troops might be withdrawn, there is no intention of making such a drastic cut as Gen. Eisenhower has suggested.

The truth is that the Western alliance is in trouble. It lacks unity. Some of its members, like France, show a tendency to develop independent or isolated policies. In fact, Gen. de Gaulle predicts that the U. S. eventually will militarily pull out of Europe, and he offers this possibility as an excuse for wishing a separate nuclear force and for refusing to sign the partial test-ban treaty. Indeed, the French President now is reported to be flirting with the idea of recognizing the Communist regime in Peking. This in itself would add to the disunity. It looks like a kind of trading maneuver to get nuclear help from America.

The U. S., therefore, cannot at this time give the impression that it is getting ready to withdraw its military forces altogether from Europe. To do so would discourage the West German government, which has 12 divisions on duty and is contributing thereby its full share in the military defense of Western Europe. The question really is how long the Bonn government can depend on de Gaulle's policies. For unless a sizeable army of French troops is on active duty, the Russians could sweep across the northern sector of Europe and overrun France.

A helpful, but not necessarily controlling, argument used by the government here in talks with European leaders is that the U. S. has been steadily losing gold to pay for its military expenses abroad and that the imbalance in the outflow of gold is creating a serious threat to the future of our monetary system.

So the experimentation policy-making goes on, and this week sees the first of several moves designed to convince Western Europe that America could withdraw some of its troops and still get its forces overseas promptly if an emergency develops.

A The U. S. has not yet been able to influence Gen. de Gaulle to become co-operative. Will the airlift operation this week give public opinion in France a dramatic assurance of the prompt aid that can be forthcoming from America at any time, or tend to confirm the point recently made by the French President that the U. S. cannot be depended upon indefinitely to protect France?

The makers of foreign policy here will have to reach some kind of understanding with the President of France before military policy can become definitive and permit the expenses reduced. Maybe Gen. de Gaulle's much-talked-of visit to Washington in a few months will furnish the needed opportunity to bring about a turn for the better in the tenuous relations existing between France and the U. S.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

There is a publication for which you pay, but never see. It is called the Congressional Record.

It has a solitary purpose: to record the daily activities of the United States Senate and the House of Representatives. It is long-winded, dull, and not always truthful. Members of Congress are permitted to edit the remarks they made before publication.

One of the worst features is a section called The Appendix. In this section, any M.C. can reprint anything which will make him or his congressional district look good. It goes on page after page and all at your expense.

Take a typical Congressional Record, October 2nd, 1963. It numbers 104 pages, somewhat lean compared to other days. Congress convenes at noon, and quits around 5 p. m. or shortly after. When the gentlemen and ladies get behind in their work—practically all the time—they may impose night sessions to consider a tax bill, civil rights, foreign aid, a budget for the republic.

On this day, the Senate opened by greeting Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia. He is a wizened man who looks like a cheroot. The august Senate poured oral flowers all over him. The emperor studied the Senate, heavily-lidded and impassive, and the Senate and galleries (according to the Record) broke into applause and got to its feet.

When the Senate returned to business, it argued a point of order. After two pages of dialogue, Senator Russell complained: "I do not know just where I lost the floor." Senator Mansfield of Montana at last got the floor. He is the majority leader, so you read on, knowing that he is about to bring up a matter of urgency to the Republic.

He made a speech criticizing Konrad Adenauer for criticizing the United States for thinking of selling wheat to the Russians. Then he read into the Record newspaper editorials endorsing the sale of wheat to the Soviet Union. Every two pages or so, Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois gets to his feet to suggest the absence of a quorum.

A few bills were introduced. One to validate salary overpayments; another for the relief of someone named Remedios R. Yankton; a third relating to gasoline taxation of interstate buses. Senator Gore spoke awhile on taxation. Senator McNamara took a whack at water pollution. Fulbright discussed co-operation in space. Some Senators take time to refer to each other as "able and distinguished."

Senator Church talked about Washington vacationers who "lost their hearts" in the Sawtooth Mountains of Idaho. Senator Carlson wanted to cite an address made by John Macy of the Civil Service Commission. Senator Bayh reprinted an article by Congressman Denton on foreign aid.

Long of Missouri endorsed the nomination of W. True Davis Jr. as Ambassador to Switzerland. There were bills for the relief of many citizens, but none for the relief of the United States of America. A tribute to former Senator Theodore Green brought out the superlatives. This was followed by a discussion of the importance of fishing.

There was a roll-call vote, and 29 Senators were absent, including both from New York State. This is 29 percent absenteeism. Dirksen asked what kind of business the Democratic majority proposed to discuss. Senator Mansfield said the Senate would discuss an equal time measure, an amendment to the Social Security Act, and federal aid to highways. "There will be a speech or two and some further remarks," he said.

It went on and on. At the end, Senator Mansfield said: "I believe it is accurate to say that the Senate has had a very productive day today."

Across the Capitol rotunda, the House of Representatives discussed Soviet intentions to land on the moon. There was a roll call: 317 present, 113 absent—26 percent absenteeism. Those present discussed the need of additional letterheads in their offices, additional air mail stamps, additional allowance for telephone and telegraph service, and other vital matters. Someone asked what business would come before the House for the rest of the week, and Congressman Albert said: "... we will have no other legislative business this week."

The Record then published 34 pages of "Extension of Remarks" of congressmen. Here, under the unanimous consent rule, they publish speeches of businessmen; accolades from editorial writers; tributes to minority groups; the bible in school; wheat to Russia; a tribute to the Republic of Guinea; an editorial from the Pennsylvania Nursery; a plea for assistance from veterinarians; a poem in memoriam to Pope John XXIII; an acceptance speech by the new president of the American Legion; Lief Erickson Day; an article by a waterfront investigator.

The Congressional Record — this one, at least—adds up to 149,760 words, very few of which have any bearing on the welfare of our country.

Area Deputy Hooks 40-Pound Striper
Deputy Sheriff Jack Seaholm is not only an expert in catching law violators but he is also an expert fisherman as was proven Thursday when he hooked a 40-pound "striper" off Lido Beach while fishing from Capt. Joseph DiCicco's charter boat "Lady Jess."

On his day off Deputy Seaholm and a party left Sheephead Bay for a day of fishing. According to the report by Capt. DeCicco, the 40-pound striped bass which was boated by Seaholm is "almost a record" for strippers caught in Sheephead Bay. The next largest caught by the party was a 20 pound bass.
Striped bass are reported running "good" in the Sheephead Bay area and some excellent catches have been reported.

The fat around chops as well as that around steaks should be slashed at intervals before the meat is broiled to prevent the meat from curling.

Best Defense Is to Attack

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Passive defense consists of making some lead that can't possibly cost you a trick. It works occasionally, but most of the time the winning method is to attack.

Thus West has his choice between a passive spade lead and an active heart lead. Should his partner hold five spades the spade lead would probably be the winner. That is a possibility, but West is looking at a certainty. He does hold five hearts and he should make the normal lead of his fourth best.

Once he opens that fourth best heart there will be no way for South to make nine tricks provided that the defense continues properly.

South will duck the first heart in both hands and will have to win the second heart in dummy. Then he will lead a low club from dummy and it will be up to East to play second hand high and go right up with the ace. This sort of play is a great strain for many bridge players and there are plenty of occasions for a duck, but this is not one of them. East can see that he isn't going to set this hand unless his partner can produce a club trick and he wants to be able to let his partner make the club trick after the heart suit is cleared up and not before.

Once East rises with the ace of clubs he leads his last heart and while South can struggle along and try all sorts of complicated plays in the other suits he is going to wind up behind the eight ball.

Ellenville Show For Heart Fund Set October 25

A talent and variety show for the benefit of the Heart Fund will be held Friday night, Oct. 25, at the Ellenville High School Auditorium, it was announced by Kenneth Mitchell, Town of Wawarsing Heart Fund Chairman.

"It is only through the support and interest of the residents in Ulster County in the Heart Fund that enables the Heart Chapter of Ulster County to carry on its program of Research, Rheumatic Fever Control Program, Heart Diagnostic Service, Professional and Public Education," said De-weese W. DeWitt, Chairman of the local Heart Chapter.

"The American Heart Association, with its affiliates and chapters, is the only national voluntary health agency devoted exclusively to combating the many forms of heart and blood vessel diseases, including heart attack, stroke, high blood pressure, rheumatic heart disease, and congestive heart failure," DeWitt said.

Those assisting Mitchell are Merrill Williams and Faber Jennings, co-chairmen of the show; Mrs. Miles Furman; ticket chairman and Mrs. Ceil Binder, award committee chairman.

Judges are William Skilling, director of the Coach House Players; Marlin E. Morrette, director of the Kingston High School Band and Mrs. Lucille Noble of the Lucille's Dance School, all of Kingston.

Health for All

Hidden Tragedies

We live in a child-centered culture—so the oft-heard story goes. And yet, a discussion in the journal of the American Medical Association points out, physical abuse of children by their parents is on the increase.

The "battered child syndrome," in fact, is estimated to be one of the most frequent causes of child death. Only a small percentage of such tragedies are officially reported in their true guise. No matter how plain the medical evidence, the facts are extremely difficult to establish 100 per cent in a court of law.

Psychologically, parental cruelty is a fact of life difficult for most of us to face. Yet those who do face it grow increasingly aware that abusive parents aren't criminals in the ordinary sense. They are basically disturbed, in need of protection against themselves.

What makes them beat their children? Psychiatrists have found that patterns of child-rearing are passed from one generation to another. Many abusive parents find themselves willfully repeating the treatment they received. Psychologically, they are still angry children. When life is too difficult, they often can't help acting like angry children. They break their dolls.

The majority of abusive parents don't suffer from "hopeless" mental disorders. Nor do social or economic status, race or religion appear to be important factors. Abusive parents are generally found to be immature, unable to cope with adult reality. But in general, they can be helped.

Psychological counseling in fact seems to offer the most hopeful pathway to correction of this tragic situation, most authorities agree. More hopeful, at any rate, than yielding to attitudes of revulsion, disbelief, or irrelevant wrath.

ROBERT OHLSON ★ DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR SUPERVISOR TOWN OF ULSTER

I quote from A. Banyo's 1961 campaign as follows:

"My opponent purports that he would be able to properly handle the duties of Supervisor while he is a school teacher. From my past experience as a school teacher and from my experience as Supervisor, I know that he cannot do so properly. He would be unable to devote any time to this office during the school day. Aside from the normal business of running the Town government, what would he do in an emergency? I have demonstrated over the past four years that I can devote sufficient time for all of the duties of the office . . ."

My Opponent Is Himself a Full Time Teacher

On the basis of his own argument,
HE SHOULD BE DEFEATED!

Selassie Delays Departure

MARRAKECH, Morocco (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia delayed his departure from Morocco today to continue efforts to mediate the Moroccan-Algerian border conflict.

The emperor was expected to hold further talks with Moroccan officials and possibly to arrange a meeting between Algerian Foreign Minister Abdelaziz Bouteflika and Moroccan Foreign Minister Ahmed Balafout.

Six Are Injured In City Mishaps

Six persons were injured in three City traffic mishaps over the weekend.

Two drivers injured in a collision at Greenkill Avenue and Prospect Street Saturday were reported in fair condition at the Benedictine Hospital today.

They are Andrew J. Wilbur, 70, of 84 Clifton Avenue, who suffered head and chest injuries, and Bruce E. Mikesch, 18, of Bloomington, who is under treatment for injuries of the right eye, knee and hip. They were taken to the hospital in a Doctor's ambulance.

Officers George Barringer and Oscar Gray, investigated. The mishap was reported shortly before noon.

Ira V. D. Warren, of 19 Len Court, and Mrs. Warren were injured, police said, when the car in which they rode went out of control, struck a gas pump and the Kingston Buick Co. building, 10-12 Main Street Sunday.

Warren, who edits the Kingstonian, suffered injuries of the left eye and chest, and Mrs. Warren, who drove the car, suffered knee and possible other injuries. They were to be treated by a doctor.

A report at 5:30 p. m. said the car was making a left turn when it went out of control. It struck an overhead door and display window after hitting the gas pump. Firemen from Wiltyck station flushed away spilled gasoline. Officer Louis Sapp investigated.

Mark Kellerman, 5, of 199 Gross Street suffered a bruised left eye, and Susan VanSteenberg, 18, of 107 Gage Street, suffered an injured left elbow in a two-car mishap reported at 5 p. m. Saturday at Broadway and Dederick Street. They were to be treated by doctors.

The one car, driven by Ora P. Boughton, 32, of Box 144, Cottickill, police said, was head out of a driveway. The injured were riding in a car operated by John V. Kellerman, 40, of 199 Gross Street.

Officers Ernest Bartoff and Junious Harris investigated.

Burning Leaves Alert Firemen Despite Warning

Local firemen received a round of calls for burning leaves, mostly in up town areas, Saturday and Sunday despite Saturday's warning by Chief James M. Brett that persons caught maliciously starting fires would be prosecuted.

Some 12 calls were answered in the two days and most of them were for fires in the Burgevin and Pearl Street areas, where police determined Friday a fire had been "definitely set."

Calls began Saturday morning and continued through to Sunday night. While most of the calls were for 12th Ward areas, firemen were also called to Florence, Franklin and Fair Streets, and to an area near Hasbrouck Park.

Firemen were told after a late Friday night fire off Pearl Street that two persons had been seen running from the area.

Corning Man in Hospital

WILLOW SPRINGS, Ill. (AP)—Robert Cochener, 36, of East Corning, N.Y., remained in a hospital Monday with internal injuries suffered in the crash of a Santa Fe Railroad passenger train and a freight train.

The crash injured 44 persons Saturday when the train plowed into a freight train which was being switched off the main line 25 miles west of Chicago.

Cochener was a passenger aboard the Los Angeles Chief.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market nudged into new high ground early this afternoon as selected blue chips pushed the averages ahead.

The advance was somewhat spotty. It was accounted for by gains in pivotal steels, motors, chemicals, electrical equipments, tobaccos and some others.

Trading was heavy but it was not all on the buy side. A number of leading issues took losses of a point or more.

Plus signs were in the majority, however, and sentiment in Wall Street was generally optimistic. Steel producers reported fresh gains in orders.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .8 at 281.7 with industrials up 1.7, rails up .3 and utilities off .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.75 at 752.35.

If these indicators were to keep their gains until the market close they would register historic highs.

American Crystal Sugar gained about 2 and Central Aguirre about a point.

Lorillard and Liggett & Myers gained around a point each.

Gains exceeding a point were scored by Du Pont and Westinghouse Electric. Radio Corp. rose more than 2, Merck and Jones & Laughlin about a point each.

Quotations by Wood, Walker & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange, 63 Wall Street, New York City, branch office, 52 Main Street, Matthew F. Hasbrouck Jr., manager.

Kingston Laboratory Of IBM Consolidates

Kingston IBM today consolidated engineering operations by transferring all Federal Systems Division personnel at this location to the Data Systems Division.

The announcement was made jointly by the heads of the two IBM divisions involved—George F. Kennard, president of the Data Systems Division, and Donald T. Spaulding, president of the Federal Systems Division.

The move will permit an expanded effort by the Data Systems Division in support of various projects in the commercial computer market. The combined laboratory will continue the space and defense projects now at Kingston.

Named manager of the enlarged DSD laboratory is Kingston's Maurice A. Every. He has been DSD technical manager of solid state memory development in Poughkeepsie.

Bruce G. Oldfield, who has been manager of the Federal Systems Division's Command Control Center at Kingston, will manage a consolidated systems development activity at Bethesda, Md.

Philip W. Jackson, who has been serving the dual role of program manager, image processing and resident manager of the DSD development operation in Kingston, will continue as the program manager, image processing.

Richard J. Whalen will continue as general manager of the IBM Kingston facility. No manufacturing operations are affected by the move, and there will be no significant change in the total IBM employment in the Kingston area.

Congressman Held For Bomb Threat Before JFK Visit

OLD TOWN, Maine (AP)—A state representative is charged with allegedly telephoning a false bomb threat on the eve of President Kennedy's visit to the University of Maine.

Rep. Robert C. Cartier, D-Biddeford, was arrested at a party Friday night.

Cartier, 24, Sunday night called the incident a foolish mistake. He said he tried to rectify it moments later but could not reach the operator because all the lines apparently were tied up.

Police said Cartier told a telephone operator Friday evening the university stadium would be bombed that night.

Kennedy received an honorary degree and made an address at the stadium Saturday. Cartier was arrested after Police Chief Otis LaBree was given the name of the street from which the call was made.

LaBree, two Secret Service agents and two state troopers made a house to house check and questioned 43 persons at a party they found in progress.

Cartier was released on $1,000 bail Saturday. Word of his arrest was withheld until Sunday because of security restrictions surrounding Kennedy's visit.

Van Loan Sentenced

John Van Loan of 138 Broadway, Port Ewen, who was arrested on July 7 in the Town of Rosendale on a charge of driving while intoxicated was sentenced to 60 days in jail.

In recent years, Trap Rock has expanded its operations to broaden and strengthen its position as a major supplier of coarse aggregates through the construction of its Nytralite plant and the acquisition of Gotham Sand & Stone Co.

New York Trap Rock shareholders will be asked to vote on the acquisition at a special meeting to be held at the company's main office in West Nyack in late November or early December—the date to be determined by its Board of Directors.

New York Trap Rock had net sales of about $20.7 million in fiscal 1963, as against $14.7 million a year earlier. Earnings per share were $1.17 in the past fiscal year compared with 64c in fiscal 1962.

Oldster Needing Hedge Picks Convertible Bonds

Q) "I am 71 years old, retired, and have $18,000 invested in stocks, $14,000 in E bonds, $25,000 in savings, and $20,000 in paid up insurance. Do you think I should withdraw $15,000 in savings and invest in convertible bonds as a hedge against inflation. If so, would you recommend three such issues for me?" — J. H.

A) I agree with you that your proportion of fixed-income invests is rather high in view of the possibility of further inflation.

Convertible bonds offer a reasonable hedge and are to a certain extent limited on the downside in the event of a market decline.

I suggest Atlantic Refining 4 1/2% due 1987 at 111, to yield 3.75, convertible price 58 — recent common price 53; Continental Baking 4 3/4% due 1983, at 108 to yield 3.81, convertible price 60 — recent common price 50 1/2; Litton Industries 3 1/2% of 1987, at 117 1/4 to yield 2.50, conversion price 80 — recent common price 80 1/4. All yields are figured to maturity.

Q) "I am executor of my wife's estate. Investments in stocks approximate $100,000 — American Telephone, Coca-Cola, General Motors pfd., Standard of California, Standard of Ohio, Standard of New Jersey, Reynolds Tobacco, Southern Union Gas. Cash is $10,000 and Series E Bonds $25,000. I have thought of redeeming the E bonds to invest in something more liquid. Have you any suggestions?" — J. R.

A) I believe your wife's estate is in excellent condition.

As regards your E bonds, it would be impossible, in my opinion, to buy more liquid securities. This series is redeemable at any time without advance notice at the Federal Reserve or at most large banks.

I would switch General Motors preferred into General Motors common, which gives a better yield and has greater appreciation possibilities.

You seem rather heavy in oils, and I suggest that you switch Standard Oil of Ohio into Consolidated Edison, which yields about the same. Otherwise, I would sit tight.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Addresses Democratic Rally

Morgenthau Says Rocky Learns Some Hard Facts

Robert F. Morgenthau, Democratic candidate for governor in 1963 and United States Attorney for the Southern District, said Sunday night that Gov. Rockefeller is learning some hard facts of political life in his quest for the Republican presidential nomination.

Addressing 200 persons at the Town of Rochester Democratic Club cocktail party and rally at Hotel Granit in Accord, Morgenthau said Rockefeller's persistent efforts to draw Sen. Barry Goldwater into a debate on GOP principles was ironic. He recalled that the governor had brushed him off during the 1962 campaign, asserting that a debate on state issues would serve no useful purpose.

Indulging in a bit of hindsight, Morgenthau said that Gov. Rockefeller learned a bitter political lesson in the last campaign don't make promises that you can't keep. He charged that Rockefeller's promise that he would be no tax increases proved misleading and predicted that there will be another tax hike in 1964.

Other speakers included former City Judge Aaron E. Klein of Kingston, the newly elected Democratic county leader, and Vernon J. Murphy, Democratic candidate for Judge of the Family Court. Klein predicted that Democratic capture of the Board of Supervisors is within the realm of probability. He asked all Democrats to rally around him in order to build a new order of government in the county.

Attorney Robert V. Stapleton of Ellenville, who was the master of ceremonies, also introduced Charles J. Tiano, secretary of the Ulster County Democratic Committee and John J. Schick, chairman of the executive committee.

All seven town candidates spoke briefly on campaign issues affecting their respective offices. They were Charles O'Brien, candidate for supervisor; Mrs. Rose S. Devo, tax collector and clerk; Peter Barley, superintendent of highways; councilman, Mary Sims; assessor 4 years, Sam Waruch; justice of the peace, Ray Lyons; assessor, 2 years,

Officers From 16 States Attend Research Parley

Forty-five Reserve Officers from the Navy, Army and Air Force, coming from 16 states ranging from Connecticut to California, attended the Third Research Reserve Seminar on Electronic Computers and Their Applications at Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh, from Oct. 6 to 19.

The Seminar was sponsored by the Office of Naval Research and was planned and conducted by members of NRRC 3-14, Poughkeepsie, commanded by CDR Norman D. Smith.

Key members of the planning and administrative staff for the Seminar were Capt. James D. Quales, who served as Commandant's Representative, and CDR William W. Lang, executive officer of NRRC 3-14, who served as seminar chairman. Col. James W. Lancaster, USAF, commander of Stewart Air Force Base and his staff provided the necessary and vital logistic assistance which contributed significantly to the successful completion of the seminar.

Challenges Delegates

The opening of the Seminar was highlighted by a luncheon held Monday, where the attendees were welcomed to Stewart AFB by Col. Lancaster and received a warm welcome to the Third Naval District from Adm.

Redfield Mason, Commandant, 3ND. At the luncheon, greetings from Adm. L. D. Coates USN, Chief of Naval Research, were brought to the conferees by Capt. W. E. Berg, USN, Assistant Chief for Research, ONR. Capt. Berg then challenged the seminar participants by a stimulating and thought provoking keynote address. In his address, Capt. Berg reviewed developments and plans for computer research sponsored by ONR and emphasized the critical requirements which all military services have for imaginative use of computers with high-speed and high capacity capability. He further stressed the Navy's hope that electronic research will be ever expanded to fill the apparently endless development of the role to be played by computers and other electronic devices. The speaker said that "virtually every major weapon system or piece of equipment in the Fleet today requires a reliable electronic nervous system for its operation." In closing his remarks, Capt. Berg expressed his gratification over the fact that Reserve Officers were participating in such activities as the Computer Seminar and keeping themselves informed and abreast of developments and new applications in the field of electronic computers.

The seminar, the third to be conducted by the Poughkeepsie Company, was characterized by Cmdr. William W. Lang as a "working seminar." Whereas the two previous seminars were essentially theoretical in nature, this year's program centered on applications of electronic computers and combined lecture-discussion sessions, field trips, programming laboratory sessions, and actual computer usage to provide a meaningful experience of learning by participation. The discussion sessions were concerned with up-to-the-minute developments and future trends in computer usage in military, business and scientific applications. Discussion leaderships for each session was provided by recognized authorities in each field and the following topics were considered: Block Analysis of Computer Functions and Machine Organization, programming: Its Uses, Status, and Future Development, Business Applications of Computers, Scientific Applications of Digital Computers, Military Applications of Digital Computers, and Future Trends in Computer Applications and Usage.

ATTEND COMPUTER SEMINAR—Principals attending the opening session of the Third Research Reserve seminar on electronic computers and their applications at Stewart Air Force Base last week were (l-r) Captain J. D. Quales, USNR, commandant's representative;

Captain W. E. Berg, USN, assistant chief for research; Rear Adm. Redfield Mason, USN, commandant; Col. James W. Lancaster, USAF, commander, Stewart Air Force Base; Commander William W. Lang, USNR, seminar chairman and Commander Norman J. Smith, USNR.

The practical and applied nature of the seminar was evident in the nine unique programming laboratory sessions and the two special evening sessions of program runs on digital computers which were interspersed with the discussion sessions and the other seminar activities. During the laboratory periods each officer completed the FORTRAN—Self-teaching manual and was presented with a specific problem. Each officer sought a solution to his problem through the use of a program which he had personally prepared using FORTRAN computer language. With the aid and assistance of Lt. (j.g.) William J. Oberle and other officers of NRRC 3-14, each officer had the opportunity to use a computer at the facilities of the IBM Corporation, Poughkeepsie, to test out his "program" and to give significant meaning to his Seminar experience.

Take Field Trips

An opportunity for seminar participants to tour field installations to view and inspect computer applications was afforded by field trips to the U.S. Army Signal Corps Development Center, Fort Monmouth, N.J., IBM Corporation facility at Poughkeepsie and 465L SAC Control System, Paramus, N.J.

At the closing session of the seminar Miss Eleanor F. Kehoe (CDR, USNR) Education Specialist, ONR presented an overview of the Naval Reserve Research Program and its functions and activities. She related the accomplishments of the seminar to the aims and objectives of ONR and presented general information of interest to the conferees relative to their status as Reserve Officers.

Naval Reserve officers in the Kingston-Poughkeepsie area who have background and interest in research and development and who would like to learn more about the opportunities presented by membership in Naval Reserve Research Company 3-14 are invited to contact Naval Reserve Training Center, Poughkeepsie, for more information.

HOUSTON (AP) — Newsmen always ask new astronauts:

"What does your wife think of your making space flights?"

The standard answer is: "She is enthusiastic."

Capt. Clifton C. Williams Jr., 31-year-old Marine, studied the question a moment, then answered:

"None of my lady friends voiced any objection."

Williams is the only bachelor among the 30 astronauts.

Direct Interest in City

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — As any other property owner, the church has direct interest in city planning, the National Catholic Welfare Council's assistant social action director says.

The assistant director, the Rev. John F. Cronin, said during a conference at the University of Dayton that the church has two stakes in urban planning: "One is human values, obviously involved in slums, and other inner-city problems; then as any other property owner."

Msgr. George G. Higgins, director of the NCWC's social action department, said the church must "make sure that city planning is not just a technical monstrosity that disregards the human element."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

I received a note from Edward J. Brennan of 2213 Stecher Avenue, Union, N. J. He wants to know "What years did downtown have street Christmas lights and would there be a picture of them?" I found one photograph dated December 1947 of Christmas lights in Rondout, taken, I imagine, from Spring Street corner (near Orpheum) down Broadway. It is an evening picture and all the store lights and Christmas lights are on. I notice that the parking meters were already on the sidewalks. I remember years ago, we used to have a large Christmas tree at the Freeman square. It seems to me, that many years ago, the businessmen of Rondout even bought their own equipment for these Christmas lights to use every year. Perhaps I can collect more information on the Christmas lights of Rondout from various sources.

Mr. Brennan also asks about the small wood machines run by a clock in my father's drug store window many years ago. That was at 46 Broadway, where the Ellen Shop is today. My father had a friend who was handy with tools, and used to construct movable items for the window display from discarded alarm clocks. My father cut out and painted figures for them, and I remember four tumbling figures on a ferris-wheel which attracted folks to the window. They also built a sort of merry-go-round. Another time little birds moved on this type of alarm clock, which of course had to be wound up. Perhaps later it was made on an electric clock. The items had to balance, and be very light, otherwise they stopped.

I received a letter from Oliver J. Tillson, II, of 1046 McDonald Street, Mount Dora, Fla. and a copy of a letter he sent to Lester G. Clark, of Kingston. Through this column, it seems, they have made contact that they are related. Mr. Tillson writes that he and Lester Clark share a "common great-great grandfather in Job Tillson (or Tillson) who was the famous scout in the Revolution." Mr. Tillson wrote from Florida, that Job's two sons, Timothy F. and John H. brought about the relationship, and he sent Mr. Clark a chart to show it.

Mr. Tillson wrote about himself that he was born in Highland, and went back to live there in 1933, until 1954, when, upon the death of his aunt, Laura Tillson Vail, they sold all the property. At that time O. J. Tillson inherited all the documents, maps, papers, etc., most of which had been kept in the family from early days, in the 1700's. Mr. Tillson's map now hangs, among other places, in the library at the Bevier House, home of the Ulster County Historical Society in Stone Ridge.

Mr. Tillson felt that his inheritance was of rather important historical significance, so he wanted it placed in safe places for future generations and for this reason he gave some of it to Cornell University, which has an excellent air-conditioned museum, with a wonderful filing and cross-reference systems, as well as other museums of such types. I am always delighted when folks make contact with old friends or relatives through this column, especially if they live thousands of miles away, like the Tillsons and the Clarks.

Bankers Honor 4Hers, County Awards Listed

4-H

Club members who completed one or more 4-H projects were honored at the annual 4-H Achievement Night Oct. 17 at the Rondout Valley Central School, Kyserike. The annual event which gives recognition to 4-H Youth for 4-H project and record completions was attended by approximately 500 County 4-H youth, local leaders, parents and friends.

After the opening flag ceremony and 4-H Pledge by 4-H Council members, Judy Schriber, New Paltz, and Norman Gaffney, Kingston; County 4-H Club agent Carlton Conklin welcomed the group. After introductions of the 4-H executive, camp and homemaking committees, the key banker of Ulster County, Ivan Warren of the Valley National Bank, Wallkill, was introduced. Warren represented the New York State Bankers Association who sponsor the Achievement Pins. The pins were presented to all 4-H members who have completed their record project work. He congratulated the members on their fine achievement work.

Achievement Pins Given

Each 4-H Club secretary or other representative received the Achievement pins and certificates for the members of his or her local 4-H Club. Mrs. Robert Weiss, chairman of the 4-H Homemaking Committee assisted with the presentation.

A summary of county awards and special trips was given and the recipients named. These selections are made on the basis of their Achievement record and participation in the total 4-H Club program.

At the conclusion of the award program, the 4-H Local Leaders present were recognized for their work and leadership with boys and girls.

A talent show followed the presentation of awards. Participation in the talent program were the following 4-H Clubs: New Paltz 4-H Green Leaves, Hurley Bluebirds, Lomontville Lamplighters, New Paltz Merry Maidens, Kingston Flying Horsemen, Hurley Busy Bees, Accord Lucky Clovers, Anderson 4-H Club of Port Ewen, North Flatbush 4-H Sew N Sews, Stone Ridge Busy Beavers and "Skip" VanAlst, New Paltz.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere.

ONE BIG LAUGH FOR KAPERS—Walter Williams and Ruth Murray, two ebullient scrubwomen, who do the floors at "Holiday Inn," appear above—as they will appear on October 22, 23, 24 at the Kingston High School Auditorium in this year's Kiwanis Kapers. The Kiwanis Club of Kingston puts on the show each year for the benefit of its Scholarship Fund and Youth Welfare work. NAA Dinner Is Scheduled Tonight

Walter M. Kasunic, a member of the National Chapter Relations Staff, National Association of Accountants, will be a visitor at a technical dinner meeting of the Mid-Hudson Chapter of NAA at 6:30 p. m. tonight at the Poughkeepsie Inn, Poughkeepsie. He will review the operations of the chapter.

A presentation will be made to Charles W. Grech, associate professor at Dutchess Community College, for having the best manuscript which was published in the August issue of the NAA Bulletin. The presentation will be made by Dr. James F. Hall, college president.

Technical subjects and moderators for the evening will include: Systems for Cost Accumulation, Gerald M. Amoroso, DeLaval Separator Company; Michael J. Cervini, IBM Corp., Kingston; and Alexander W. Hubner, IBM, Kingston; and Presenting Accounting Data, Anthony J. Barone and Robert H. Sander, IBM, Poughkeepsie, and Robert P. Doff, Love Oil Company.

A preliminary board of directors meeting will be held prior to the dinner.

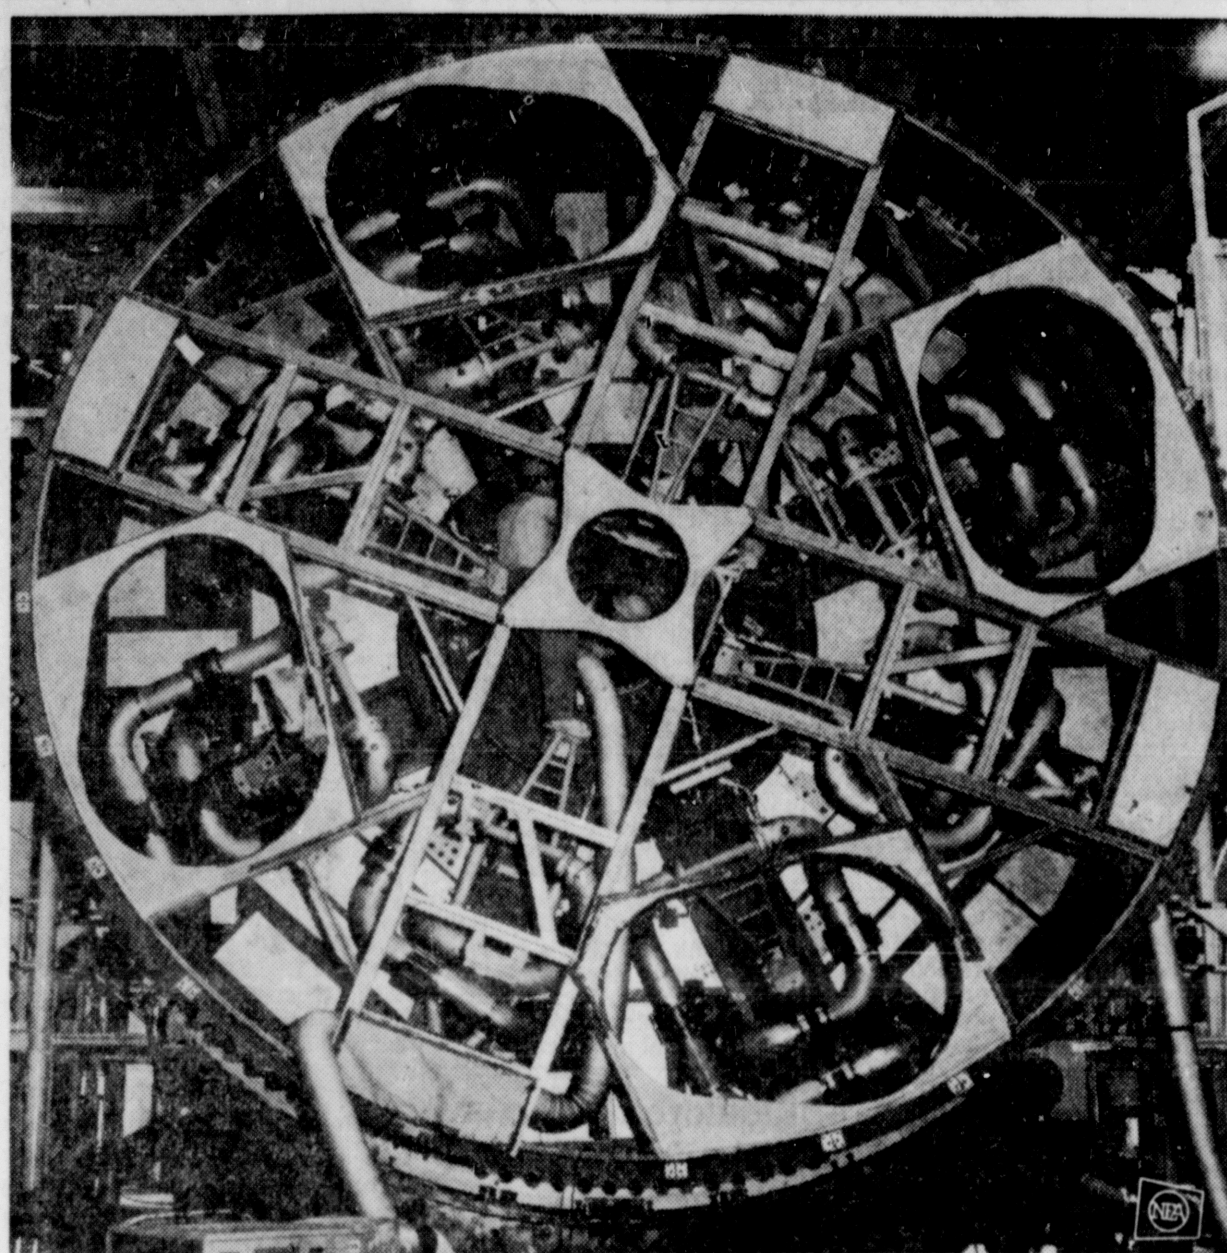

Kasunic, who serves as administrative assistant, chapter relations staff, joined the staff in March 1956. His duties include meeting with the board of directors of association chapters to review their operational problems and procedures and to discuss national policies in relation to chapters.

Director-Instructor

NEW YORK (AP) — Directors from India, Russia and England are to participate as instructors in the fifth year of work at the Institute for Advanced Studies in the Theater Arts.

The guests include Mrinalini Sarabhai, founder of a drama-dance center at Ahmedabad; Nikolai Okhlopov of Moscow's Teatr Mayakovsky; and John Blatchley, of Stratford-upon-Avon and Sadler's Wells.

In each case, the director will lecture on acting techniques and tutor seminar participants in performance of appropriate drama.

THREE MEN ON A SPACE WORKHORSE—Three men are at work somewhere in this picture. Can you find them? When you do, you'll have a good idea of the size of the giant S-I booster stage of the Saturn I space vehicle being built by Chrysler at the new Michoud facility in New Orleans. The three technicians are checking the maze of tubing involved in the fuel supply and control of the eight rocket engines. When completed the S-I will have 7,500 feet of tubing in 1,200 parts, 50 miles of wire in 24,000 parts, 245 valves, nine tanks and eight engines. Where are the three men? One is poking his head out of the center opening, one is standing on a strut just to the left and the third is entangled in some tubing just above and to the right of the first two.

REAL MAN: These two words are supposed to be important in the performance of magic. Oddly enough, there once was a magician named Ochus Bochus in Scandinavian mythology. Hocus Pocus is just a variation of his name.

HEALTH AND WEALTH

Two hundred physicians and surgeons in America care for about 185 million people. Specialists and general practitioners are capable in diagnosing and treating a great coterie of ills and diseases.

The administration of health and of wealth has some bases of similarity. The financial world is shot through with social, economic, political, and moral forces. Anyone who professionally analyzes material values should have an understanding of these powers.

The stock market is at the very center of the financial world. Today the stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange are worth more than $400 billion and these values are growing constantly. There are about 17 million stockholders. Hence, the average holding of each holder is more than $23,000.

Where should this growing list of 17 million stockholders get its advice? Why, from counselors specializing in corporation and investment finance. And these counselors should be well grounded in economics (all material values are based on economic law) and in accounting.

Yet today America does not begin to have enough competent investment counselors. They must be professionals with no axe to grind.

No vocation in America is more open to development than investment counseling. Half of the letters I get from readers of this column are from investors who badly need competent counseling.

If I were an undergraduate again if I wanted to become an able manager of money, I would go to a good liberal arts college. There I would study economics, corporation finance, accounting, economic history, and English.

At my graduation I would get a job in a bank, an investment banking firm, or with a good New York Stock Exchange outfit, where I would learn, under experienced direction, how to manage money in all of its ramifications.

Then, perhaps at age 30, with several years of successful money-management experience I would hang out my own shingle.

A capable counselor can manage 100 large accounts. His yearly fees might range from $500 to $5,000. Then in America there are millions of other investors with limited funds who can and will pay fees of $100 to $200 a year. A competent counselor can manage 500 such small accounts.

Granted that he sees ten clients every day on the average, five days a week, he can easily earn in professional fees from $25,000 to $50,000 a year.

And by the time he is 40, he should have a score of millionaire clients paying yearly fees of from $1,000 to $5,000.

The Securities and Exchange Commission recognized the vocation of investment counseling 23 years ago. And this vocation has not developed the proportions it should have.

I speak from experience. In 1930 I resigned an executive job with a strong New York Stock Exchange firm to hang out my own shingle. And now for 33 years I have had a most enjoyable professional life.

America needs 25,000 competent investment counselors.

Democratic Women Are Urged to Assume Active Political Roles; Tea Is Given

Bronx Assemblywoman Aileen B. Ryan, the only distast member of the New York State legislature, told almost 100 Democratic Women Saturday to sell their party, its principles and achievements to the public.

"You can influence your friends and associates better than any man because you are close to the issues, you see them about you in every day life. Appoint yourself a committee of one and remember the essence of a Democratic Party is legislation for the great majority. Ours is the humane party."

Assemblywoman Ryan was guest speaker at a Democratic tea Saturday afternoon in the Wiltwyck Country Club, Lucas Avenue. Sponsored by the Ulster County Democratic Women's Division of which Mrs. Irma Cody is president, the tea honored 23 Democratic women candidates.

Another guest speaker was Mae Gurevich, vice chairman of the New York Democratic State Committee, who charged women with the "solemn duty to assume our share of the burden of government."

Democratic candidates for county-wide office and their wives attended the tea as well as Aaron Klein, Ulster County Democratic chairman; Mrs. Rose Hogan, Ulster County vice chairman; Mrs. Harriet Allen Kerr, Democratic state committeewoman.

Hits State Apathy
Those attending the tea and reception heard Assemblywoman Ryan strike out against apathetic voters. Stressing that six million votes were cast out of a possible 11 million in the last gubernatorial election, Mrs. Ryan called the five million who did not vote "useless individuals."

She commended the Democratic party in Ulster County for its 23 women candidates. In emphasizing the importance of women in politics, Assemblywoman Ryan was careful to state:

"... we are not ardent feminists and we do not want to take over the world—but our voice should and must be heard."

Vice chairman Gurevich, who believes that women have a great deal to offer in the field of politics, feels it is the solemn duty of every woman to assume a share of the burden of government.

In her address she said: "We are living in a period when new thinking is imperative to progress, when creative, imaginative programs are needed to combat the increased complexity of our day. And we need the thinking of women as well as men."

"A woman in politics starts off with three strikes against her on general principles. She must be more learned than men, know her homework and above all, be a diplomat."

"Women, who are the largest block of voters today, are politically sophisticated and mature. We are discreet and discerning in selecting our favorites. Yes, the women have come of age and are ready to create a Female Bill of Rights for a better America and a better world."

Planning the Program
In charge of Saturday's program was Mrs. Margaret Crans, who served as chairman of the tea, and Mrs. Irma Cody, president of the division.

Ticket chairman was Mrs. Ruth Heider of Gardiner. Serving on the ticket committee were Mrs. Hogan, vice chairman of the county committee, Mrs. Florence Crosby and Mrs. Jeanette Kelly; Denning, Mrs. Herbert George and Mrs. Pauline Rose; Esopus, Mrs. Roger Mabie; Gardiner, Mrs. Heider; Hurley, Mrs. John Sanglyn; Lloyd, Mrs. Ruth Decker; Marlborough, Mrs. John Parete; Marlborough, Mrs. Eleanor Spagnola; New Paltz, Mrs. Harriet Allen Kerr, state committeewoman; Olive, Mrs. Mary Merriew; Plattekill, Mrs. Anna Comulada and Jerome Rose; Rochester, Mrs. Amy Hirsch; Rosendale, Mrs. Marguerite B. Taylor; Saugerties, Mrs. Frances Knuth; Shandaken, Mrs. Lindsay Hoyt; Shawangunk, Mrs. Margaret Crans; Ulster, Mrs. Freda Martens; Wawarsing, Mrs. Margaret Eckert and Mrs. Cody; Woodstock, Mrs. Tobie Geertsema.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES IN SOUTHERN ULSTER—Also included in the group of 23 Democratic women seeking offices throughout the county are, seated (l-r) Catherine O'Leary, clerk, Town of Rosendale; Marie Reilly, clerk,

Town of Plattekill; Marion Sullivan, clerk, Town of Shawangunk; standing (l-r) Margaret Geary, collector, Town of Rosendale; Ethel Reilly, clerk, Town of Esopus; and Anna Donahue, clerk, Town of Gardiner. (Freeman photos)

Ban 'Creeping Romance'

Dear Kathy: This may sound silly but where should a girl sit in a car with her date? My friends disagree quite a bit about this and I'd like you to settle it. They say "first date next to the door, second in the middle and third next to the boy." This sounds fast. I am 17.—Dashboard Drifter.

Dear Dashboard Drifter: Not only fast but all wrong! Forget your tape measure and pick the spot where you'd normally sit as a passenger. When a girl sits a little closer to a fellow, it's because she feels closer to him, not just because it happens to be date No. 2.

Extremes never are good. Hugging the door makes it seem as if you trust neither the boy nor his driving. It's not only hazardous but you look like a social misfit who is trying to crawl right out of the whole situation.

This doesn't mean that I'm suggesting the other alternative. Let's face it, on a third or fourth date, you shouldn't sit so close that you interfere with the driving.

About midway between driver and door is as close as you can sit to travel safely and demonstrate good taste. Your friend's solution sounds like "creeping romance" to me. Where would you sit on the fourth date — in his lap?

THE CLOTHES POLL

By HELEN HENNESSY
Newspaper Enterprise
Women's Editor

Last year, designer Rudi Gernreich predicted "no top" swimsuit for women. The cry "not for me," rang loud and clear. But the day may be nearer than you think.

Paris sent necklines plunging in everything from ball gowns to beach wear. And, surprisingly, women took to the idea with an enthusiasm you would expect in their fellow MEN.

The curtain is up on this season's resort wear and the bared bosom has come to the beach. Forget about the covered-up look that was big in swimwear last summer. If your newest swimsuit has sleeves and a trim high neckline, chuck it before you take your cruise or you'll be out of the swim.

The new suits have horseshoe shape plunges and deep Vs that barely stop in time. And backs plunge to the point where there's just enough fabric left to make beach sitting comfortable.

Suits that aren't plunging back or front are "sideless"—or almost. Slits and open lacing pop up everywhere. And the gals are going for them in a big way.

But all this pulchritude will be covered up part of the time. Elegance is still dear to the heart of women and even the briefest suits come with long, flowing overskirts, voluminous beach capes and long torso shirts.

Yet there's something, too, for the siren who stands firmly on the belief that beauty is in the eye of the beholder. Her abbreviated swimsuit can be "beheld" under sheer voile or lace peek-a-boo shirt that comes to the knees but hides nothing.

MAID SOILS GUEST'S DRESS

Q: Last night I had several guests in to dinner and as we were being served, the waitress accidentally spilled some gravy on the dress of one of my guests. Will you please tell me if I should offer to have the dress cleaned for her, or just what is a hostess supposed to do in a situation of this kind?

A: Since it was your maid who was at fault, you should offer to have your guest's dress cleaned, but if she refuses, which she probably will do, don't insist.

Double Wedding of Twin Brothers

Q: My brother and I are twins and we plan to be married at a double wedding. The brides are not sisters nor are they related. The question has been raised as to which mother is accorded the honor of being seated last and seated in the first pew. Will you please tell us how this can be handled so that one of them won't feel slighted?

A: Both mothers share the first pew, and the mother of the older bride is seated last.

Children At Funeral

Q: My mother-in-law died recently. The day of the funeral, my husband's unmarried sister, his older brother and his wife plus their three half-grown children were seated in the first car. My husband and I were seated in the second car. I think my husband's place was in the first car with his sister and brother and that the children should have been in another car. Am I wrong in feeling that the grandchildren should not have been put before a son?

A: I don't see that you have any cause to feel that your husband was slighted. I think it was wise to put the grandchildren in the first car with their parents.

Charge Catskill Man With Murder

A Catskill man was ordered held for action of the Greene County grand jury Saturday after he waived preliminary examination on a second-degree murder charge.

Richard Dixon, 62, of 48 Bridge Street, Catskill, waived preliminary examination at his arraignment before Peace Justice Arthur Webster.

Village Police said that Dixon was confined to the Greene County Jail in connection with the death Saturday afternoon of Raymond Hicks, 60, of Jefferson Heights, Catskill, at the Bridge Street address. They said that Hicks was dead on arrival at Greene County Memorial Hospital from knife wounds.

Police said that Hicks, who was a cousin of Mrs. Dixon, apparently had been drinking and went to the Dixon home where he threatened to kill Dixon's family. They said that Dixon's wife, Ann, and her three children went into a bedroom. They said

DeWitt on National Savings Committee

Dewese W. DeWitt, executive vice president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, has been appointed a member of the committee on National Legislation of the Savings Association League of New York State, according to an announcement by David Ford, president of that organization.

This committee initiates federal legislative matters of interest to savings and loan associations, and also provides liaison with the Home Loan Bank Board, the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation and other federal government agencies.

There are 227 savings associations in New York State, with total assets exceeding $6.3 billion.

World News In Brief

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Syrian troops are fighting alongside Iraqi forces in the war against Kurdish rebels in northern Iraq.

President Abdel Salem Aref of Iraq said in a speech broadcast Sunday it was the first unified operation since the two nations merged armed forces two weeks ago.

Aref did not say how many Syrians are participating, but earlier unofficial reports estimated one brigade.

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Fifty thousand Africans cheered Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta Sunday on his return from London with word that Kenya will obtain full independence Dec. 12.

"I have got the British lion by the tail after 40 years of fighting for independence," said the veteran nationalist.

Kenyatta said in the negotiations in London his delegation had obtained changes in the draft constitution that would provide for a united nation in which all races and tribes could feel secure.

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Nine Korean women, most of them drowned when a fishing boat capsized Sunday off the coast of Pongtaik, 40 miles south of Seoul.

A sudden wave overturned the boat as it was on its way back from an oyster bed in the Yellow Sea.

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Burma's military government has nationalized the country's seven cigarette manufacturing companies. It was the last segment of big business still in private hands.

The "enterprises nationalization law" promulgated Saturday empowers the government to nationalize any business concern on the understanding that compensation will be paid.

Report on Aluminum
NEW YORK (AP)—The Aluminum Association, a producer organization, has reported that nine-month output of primary aluminum this year in the U. S. totaled 1,697,222 tons. This was 8.1 per cent above the 1,570,635-ton output of the first nine months of 1962 and set a record for any nine-month period, the association reported Saturday.

Neighborhood Service Team Formed Locally

A new Neighborhood service team has been formed for the Woodstock-West Hurley Neighborhood, the Ulster County Girl Scout Council has announced.

Mrs. William Fisher will serve as Neighborhood chairman. Mrs. Dean Kintner will be the troop consultant and Mrs. Paul Periman is the new troop organizer. Although the success of scouting depends primarily on the adult leaders, formation of this unit will enable more girls of the area to enjoy this activity and will also aid the leaders in giving a more satisfactory program, the Council said.

A form will soon be given to every girl of scouting age, which should be completed by the parent, as directed, and returned, so that there will be a more accurate awareness of the need for troops and leaders. This fall, Girl Scouts have revised their program so that it is better able to serve the youth of America, the Council said. Groupings for girls now fall into four divisions: Brownies, grades 2 and 3; Juniors, grades 4 and 5; Cadettes, grades 7, 8 and 9; and Seniors, grades 10-12.

On Wednesday, Oct. 23, at 1:30 p. m. at van Rijn's barn, there will be a meeting of adults in the neighborhood who are willing to give volunteer service; either helping the girls with their activities or serving in some capacity on the adult committee. All leaders, troop committee members and interested persons are urged to attend. Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Fisher.

Toastmasters Install Group

The Woodstock Toastmasters Club began its second year with the installation of new officers to their respective duties at their bi-monthly luncheon meeting held Tuesday, Oct. 15. Special guest was James L. Blackburn, president of the Newburgh Toastmasters Club and associated with Pillsbury.

According to its founder and past president, James J. McGowan, the Woodstock chapter was organized one year ago to assist interested individuals to become proficient in public speaking and in their ability to communicate facts and ideas.

NORMAN T. BOGGS III (center) graduate student in chemistry at the State University of New York at Buffalo, shown with two colleagues, Joseph F. Bieron (left) and Everett J. Nienhouse (right), is one of the first to work in the chemistry laboratories in the new wing of Acheson Hall. The addition, which will be formally dedicated November 1 and 2, doubles the facilities for graduate research in chemistry at the University. Boggs, son of Mrs. Margaret Weterau of Woodstock, New York, took his undergraduate studies at Hamilton College, Clinton, New York.

The Woodstock Toastmasters is a charter club of Toastmasters International. Other chartered clubs in the Catskill area include Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Stewart Air Force Base and Temple Hill.

The new officers include: Kenneth Nakamoto, president; Peter Grad, educational vice president; John Ebbs, administrative vice president; William Fisher, secretary; Gerald Howland, treasurer, and William Powers, sergeant-at-arms.

Drama Reading At Cafe Espresso

A dramatized reading of The Lesson, a one-act play by the modern French playwright, Eugene Ionesco, will be presented at the Cafe Espresso in Woodstock on Sunday, Oct. 27, at 8:30 p. m. A short discussion period will follow the reading. Belonging to the "Theatre of the Absurd," The Lesson is one of Ionesco's early plays and has enjoyed great popularity especially in Europe. There will be a nominal cover charge in lieu of an admission fee.

Alex Osina will read the part of the professor, Gloria Criscimagna will play the pupil, and the maid will be portrayed by Edith Le Fever, who is also the director. Lighting will be by Jack Burton.

A workshop performance will be given for members of the Coach House Players on Thursday, Oct. 24, 9:30 p. m., at the Coach House, to which the public will not be invited.

Fire Drill

Duncan Wilson, captain of Woodstock Fire Company No. 1, has announced that an oil fire demonstration will be held on the Bearsville Flats Sunday, Oct. 27, at 2 p. m. Should the fire ban still be in effect, the demonstration will be postponed to a date to be announced, Wilson said.

Firemen Present Children's Program

The Fire Prevention Program and party, sponsored by the Active Hose Company No. 1 of the Village of Rosendale, was reported a success.

The party was held at the Rosendale Fire House, Main Street. Approximately 150 children attended. Maurice Crookson, chief of the fire police, gave a report on the duties of the fire police. Lieutenant Albert Morrell, showed the guests through the firehouse and demonstrated how the fire trucks worked. Robert Markle made a speech on the meaning of Fire Prevention Week and George Craft demonstrated how to use a fire extinguisher by putting out a wastepaper fire.

Lollipops were given to the children and cake and coffee were served to the adults by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Fire Department. The children were also presented with Junior Fire Marshall's Badges.

Fort Louisburg, French citadel in Nova Scotia, was razed by the British in 1760 with the thoroughness of an earthquake.

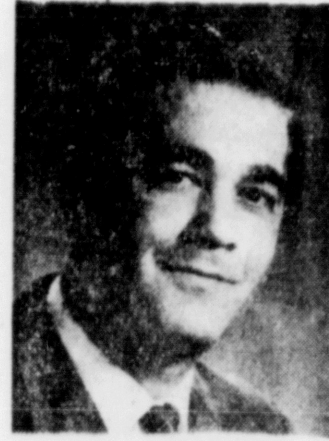

Family Supper Is Big Success

The family get-together supper held Saturday evening at the firehouse in Lake Hill was a "decided success," according to a spokesman for the Ladies Auxiliary of Woodstock Fire Co. No. 3 who promoted the supper.

"Over 50 active firemen, auxiliary members, and their families were present at the covered dish supper and the entertainment consisting of two educational films on fire prevention," stated the auxiliary spokesman. This was the first time the Ladies Auxiliary tried to hold such a supper, and the success of it was underlined when those in attendance requested that another similar affair be held sometime in the future.

Reservations for the bus trip to New York City on Saturday December 7, sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the fire company are now being received.

People desiring to make the New York trip on December 7 are asked to make reservations with Mrs. Alfred Ostrander of Willow.

Eyes that look old...

look young...

in seconds

Some women have old eyes, lost in deep circles. Even the most ingenious use of make-up won't create the illusion of youth as long as these shadows are visible. Now, with the swift magic of John Robert Powers' Crème de la Crème, dark circles are lightened almost out of sight. Ever so little on the tip of a finger stroked gently under the eyes and the shadows give way to clear beauty—smooth, fresh and unflawed. Tube, $3.50 (plus tax).

More ways to beauty with Crème de la Crème

Nose a bit too long? Eyes too deep set? Cheeks too hollow for beauty? Create the illusion of perfection with Crème de la Crème. Tired out? Deep lines making you older than you are? Lighten fatigue lines with Crème de la Crème! (Directions with every tube.)

What Does Ulster County's Community Chest Give You?

Last year you gave $162,000 to the member agencies of the Ulster County Community Chest. These agencies, who answer the social and welfare needs of the old, the young, the sick and poor among our County's 126,000 citizens are:

The Association for Retarded Children, Boy Scouts of America, Gateway Industries for the Handicapped, Girl Scouts of America, Jewish Community Center of Kingston, Kingston Boy's Club, Salvation Army, United Cerebral Palsy, USO, YMCA and YWCA. Community Chest areas, besides Kingston, take in Marlborough, New Paltz, Rosendale, Saugerties, Hurley, Esopus and the Town of Ulster.

Your contributions to the one-for-many 1962 Ulster County Community Chest meant for the KINGSTON JEWISH COMMUNITY CENTER an allotment of $10,000. Here is what they gave you in return:

Over 800 residents of the Kingston area received help to make their leisure time more productive through participation in the social, informal education and recreational programs at the Jewish Community Center, 96 Maiden Lane, and its Family Recreation Site and Summer Day Camp in Hurley. Center membership increased during the past twelve months as a result of the stimulating programs and activities being offered and participation, by actual cumulative count during the period, resulted in 1,859 different activity sessions with a cumulative attendance figure of 97,511.

The center works to help individuals achieve affirmative identification with Jewish life and culture and with their responsibilities as citizens of the United States. To do this, it provides a trained staff, facilities, and a full program of supervised club group activities, athletics, social activities, informal education and civic programs for age groups of both sexes—from children through senior citizens. Membership in the Jewish Community Center and access to its facilities, however, is open to all residents of Ulster County Community Chest area on a non-sectarian basis.

A Nursery School is conducted at the center for 10 months of the year. In summer, its children's day camp and the family recreation site with 124 acres of woodland, swimming pool and athletic and picnic areas offer full days of directed education and recreation.

Making cancer dressings, scrapbooks for veterans' hospitals, cooperation with local civic bodies on programs for advancement of the welfare of the entire community are equally emphasized in the center's schedules. Lack of a Family Casework agency in this area has resulted in more and more people with individual problems turning to the center for casework help. The center recognizes this need in the community and a small caseload is being carried by the staff.

During the coming year, the center expects to continue its intensive program. Like the other ten local agencies in the chest, it also hopes to expand its activities to provide more programs attractive to greater numbers of chest area citizens.

The Jewish Community Center unites with its member agencies in pointing out during the 1963 Community Chest fund drive—the more you give, the more you get. IF YOU CANNOT GIVE YOUR FULL SHARE, WON'T YOU GIVE A FAIR SHARE?

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It's not very often that even a dedicated television viewer has an experience like "Laughs for Sale."

That is the program, unfortunately, that has replaced Sunday nights "100 Grand."

I cannot remember a program so inane, pointless, unfunny and disorganized. If it lasts a couple of weeks, it could make jokes and comedians go out of style. The idea is to solicit comedy material from writers-new and undiscovered or old and discovered. The material, selected by an unidentified board of experts, is read by professional comedians.

Sunday night the professionals all were good, funny people—Mickey Rooney, Phil Foster, and Sheeky Greene—who tried but could not conceal their distaste for the material. Comedienne Cara Williams was around, too, and I suspect that her spot was cut out of an overlong tape. She was the luckiest guest star of the four.

ABC ought to be ashamed of itself for this shabby show.

The same network, earlier Sunday evenings, is experimenting with a 90-minute show called "Arrest and Trial." Sunday night it had a story so full of emotionally disturbed characters it looked like an out-patient clinic for the network's "Breaking Point" psychiatry series.

One show returning for a new season has quietly picked up a new format and is much happier and faster than before. It is NBC's "Joey Bishop Show" on Saturdays.

Joey seems more easy in his role and the format now includes a sort of concealed night-club or variety type entertainment each week. The other night Joey did a stand-up routine—jokes and a good Jimmy Durante impersonation—ostensibly for an audience of one, his television wife. The device is thin but the entertainment is fun and a nice change from the marital misunderstanding gambit.

To Keep Lower Rate On Opinion Telegrams

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Western Union Telegraph Co. will continue to offer a special rate for personal opinion telegrams addressed to the governor, the lieutenant governor and members of the Legislature.

The Public Service Commission said Saturday it had approved the company's proposal to make permanent an 85-cent special rate for 15-word personal opinion messages to these state officials.

The cost of a regular telegram sent during the day is about $1.20 for 15 words. The company initiated the service on an experimental basis last Feb. 20. About 10,200 personal messages were filed between Feb. 20 and Sept. 30, the PSC said.

Ward Employees To Inspect New Store Tonight

The cash registers in Montgomery Ward and Company's new Kingston store will ring up their initial sales tonight.

Families of employees and construction workers will be given an opportunity to inspect the 121,980 sq. ft. store and shop in it for the first time.

Charles M. Levensgood, store manager, termed the preview "a wonderful opportunity to meet the wives, husbands and children of all our new employees." Levensgood and his staff will greet the visitors at the main entrance.

The preview will serve as a final training session for sales and service personnel who will be greeting opening day throngs on Wednesday.

Finishing touches were being added throughout the store today by interior and window display men in preparation for another special preview tomorrow night, this one for Ulster County civic and business leaders.

Saugerties Wins 28th Straight, Tops Wappingers, 30-7

Giannotti Paces Sawyers With Two Touchdowns

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Scoring the first three times they received the pigskin, the talented Saugerties High Sawyers breezed to their 28th consecutive victory, 30-7, at Wappingers Falls Saturday.

Coach Fred Seither's club moved to undisputed possession of top spot in the DCSL, as Beacon was held to a tie by Roosevelt.

Halfback Richie Giannotti started the scoring with touch-downs from close range in the first stanza. Al Gentner, his halfback partner tallied in the second period and end Mike Brady and fullback Glenn Davis had touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters. Wappingers tallied near the end of the tilt against reserves.

Only 12 Plays
It took the visitors only 12 plays to score in the opening period. They put the kickoff in play on the 36 and marched 64 yards. Giannotti carried four times for 22 yards, the final play coming on a line smash.

After the Falls was forced to punt, SHS drove to another touchdown, covering 56 yards in seven tries. Giannotti circled end from the eight for the second tally.

Early in the second period, the Sawyers powerhouse took the ball for the third time. Presto. Another touchdown. Giannotti, nearing the end of three sensational seasons of football, moved 20 yards for the big gainer. Gentner carried for the final yardage, hitting to the one from the nine on the first crack and then taking it across.

Not As Sharp
The Sawyers weren't nearly as sharp in the second half. However, they went on a 52 yard sustained drive near the end of the stanza. The payoff came on a 25 yard pass from Buytkins to Brady.

A drive of 66 yards, early in the fourth quarter, was climaxed when Davis bulled in from the two. The big gainer was a 23 yard pass from Buytkins to Brady.

Reserves, who played some of the second period and most of the last stanza, surrendered a touchdown late in the proceedings with fullback Lou DuPilka lugging the pigskin over from the five. The drive covered 50 yards. Randy Scott ran for the PAT.

Saugerties was on the Wappingers 25 when the game ended. The Sawyers will travel to Albany Academy on Saturday for a meeting with the undefeated home side.

Saugerties reserves: Bielen-ski, Bond, Kane, Musser, Olinger, Brian Owens, Bruce Thornton, Wood.

Wappingers reserves: Anderson, Bischoff, Haslam, McLaren, Miller, Sands, Scott.

Wheatcroft-Kunz
Bridge Winners
Mrs. I. H. Wheatcroft and Carl Kunz of Kingston combined for a 59 1/2 per cent score to pace the Wiltwyck Duplicate Bridge Club's semi-monthly Fractional point game. Twenty-four boards were in play in a Howell movement.

Runnersup were Mrs. Chester Van Gaasbeek of Hurley and Walter Daumann of Pine Hill with 57 1/2 per cent. Dr. and Mrs. Harry McNamara of Hurley had 56 1/2 per cent, with Dr. John Comstock and L. H. Wheatcroft of Kingston Knitting 52 per cent.

A Fractional point game is scheduled Nov. 7 at 8 p. m. in the Stuyvesant Hotel in Kingston.

Sport Club Scores 44th Straight Win

Locals Trounce Schenectady FC At Home, 4 to 1

A Kingston Sport Club soccer squad that seems to get better every weekend trounced Schenectady Football Club, 4-1, Sunday at Oehler's Mountain Lodge Field for its 44th straight Central New York Soccer Association victory. Six of the wins have come in the new 1963-64 season.

Relying on good combinations, solid defense and fine passing, the locals dominated the game from the start to finish and indicated they are razor sharp for the Amateur Cup series scheduled to start on Nov. 2.

A pair of goals by Tony Fitzharris and one by Alex Dirks gave Kingston a 3-0 halftime lead. John Davis booted Schenectady's lone goal midway in the second half. Fuchsen closed out the Kingston scoring at the 75-minute mark. Dirks scored on the end of a long pass and Fitzharris beat the Schenectady goalie for his first score.

Fitzharris, Peter Fuchs and Carlo Bustamante were stand-outs for the Kingston team.

Reserves Click
Kingston controlled the ball most of the way and only a superb defensive job by the Schenectady goalie kept the score from skyrocketing. Coach Bob Graves used his subs liberally in the second half and although the attack lost something combination-wise, the locals never lost control of the game.

The club is making elaborate preparations for its fourth anniversary dinner dance on Nov. 9 at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

The locals travel to Poughkeepsie next Sunday. A training session is slated Thursday night.

The Kingston lineup:
Goalie — Legname; LFB—Lee Roberts; RFB — Frank Luzzi; LHB — Newmehshinsky; CHB — Vizvary; RHB — Miller; OL — DiBello; IL — Bustamante; CF — Fitzharris; OR — Fuchs, Reserves: Alexander, Fuchsen, Baqual and Northrup.

Hans Ulfing, a former Sport Club member, did a fine job as referee.

Kathy Whitworth Wins Hillside Open Golf
SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—Kathy Whitworth of Jal, N.M., led all the way to take the $1,200 top money in the annual Hillside Open Golf Tournament at Montecito Country Club Sunday.

She shot a 54-hole total of 219. Second was Mickey Wright of Dallas, Tex., whose 223 brought in $950. Third place Marlene Hagge, won $750 with a 225.

Aldrich Takes Accord Feature

Gordon Aldrich of Accord captured Sunday's 25-lap stock car feature at the Accord Speedway.

Pat Patterson of Grahamsville was runnerup, followed by Stretch Van Steenburg, Lee Cole and Warren Nissen.

Cortland Booters Nip New Paltz State, 3-2

Though jumping to a 2-1 lead in the first period, the Hawks of New Paltz State couldn't keep pace with Cortland's superior manpower and lost a 3-2 soccer decision Saturday at the State College field.

After Gouton Martin of the visitors had put his club ahead with a penalty kick at 7:46 of the opening period, Coach Al Miller's booters came back. Gene Ventriglia evened the count at the 14:53 mark when he scored on a penalty kick. Then Richie Lotze booted home a goal at 21:32.

The visitors, who suited up almost three full teams and kept changing them in the hot, humid weather, knotted the score at 5:34 of the second period on a goal by Al Froxides.

With time running out late in the fourth and final period, New Paltz ...

Froxides made the winning goal. It came at the 20:25 mark. Goalie Tom Clarke of the Hawks had 23 saves, several on the spectacular side. Bill Huntley of the visitors was credited with 21 saves.

The Hawks are now 5-2 for the season. They play at Oneonta State on Wednesday and will host Oswego on Saturday.

Liberty Still Undefeated, Topples Onteora Team, 34-6

Onteora Central won the first quarter, 6-0, but Liberty's undefeated Indians rallied in the final three periods for a 34-6 UCAL victory Saturday at the Boiceville gridiron.

Halfback John Phelan started the home side off right by slanting in from the one to climax a 70 yard drive. He set up the score with a 30 yard slant.

Liberty, seeking a second straight title, tallied in the second period when quarterback John Elliot sneaked over from the one. Just before halftime, the visitors hit paydirt again as Clayton Yaun went eight yards on a reverse. Elliot passes to Yaun for the PAT.

Jeff Grund threw 28 yards to Mike Tanous for a third period score and this same pair combined for the PAT. Jeff Grund went nine yards on a double reverse for another third quarter touchdown and Elliot hit Yaun with a pass for the point.

The scoring was completed in the fourth stanza when fullback Don Benton plunged in from the four. Elliot again passes for the PAT, throwing to end Don Clark.

Wallkill Tops New Paltz, 36-0

Unbeaten Wallkill scored almost at will and walloped New Paltz, 36-0, in a UCAL contest Saturday at the losers' field.

Dennis Mullen passed for 15 yards to brother Rich for a first period score.

The invaders put the contest out of reach in the second quarter, scoring four times. Halfback Tom Apuzzo hit paydirt twice on runs of eight and 10 yards. Bob Wensley galloped 80 yards with an intercepted pass and Mullen sneaked in from close range.

Mullen passed to Bob Kissel for a third period score, the play covering 40 yards.

The winners piled up 121 yards rushing and 153 in the air. New Paltz gained 102 on the ground and 40 via the airwaves.

Unbeaten Beacon had to fight to remain in the running for the DCSL title and was carried all the way to the finish in a 21-21 deadlock Saturday at Roosevelt.

The visitors scored in the first period, going 60 yards. Dave Mason hit Mickey Reed for a touchdown pass from the seven and this combination also added the extra point.

The Bulldogs marched 71 yards in the second period with Murray Milligan tallying from the middle and Mason throwing to big Mike McCray for the PAT.

Roosevelt beaten the week before by Arlington, struck back. Dave Mallory passed to Mace Jones for a TD and George Platter threw to Mallory for the extra point.

Moments later, the Presidents blocked a punt on the Beacon 34 and went in for another TD. Mallory hit Platter for the touchdown and Jones took a Mallory toss for the PAT.

It was Mallory who put the home side ahead when he went in from the four on the first play of the fourth quarter. He then threw to Jones for the extra point.

A pass play from Mason to Reed put the Bulldogs back on the board and Mason hit Milligan for the tying point.

Beacon had an end zone pass intercepted when the game ended.

Forst Keglers Wallop 3315, Win Three in Newburgh Loop

Sparked by 700s on the part of Jack Ferraro and Chris Gallo, Forst Foremost keggers smashed a 3315 triple Friday night in a Mid Hudson Major League match at the Campi-Tarsio Lanes in Newburgh.

The score was only four pins shy of the all-time Newburgh City Assn record of 3319, set last year by Tompkins and Baxter Insurance.

Jack Ferraro stroked 255, 226 and 237 for a 718 series and Gallo added 257, 213 and 237 for 707. Big Jake Charter rebounded from a 181 opener to add 254 and 258 for 693. John Ferraro chipped in with a 609 triple and Bob Shelighner added 588.

Team games were 1077, 1123 and 1115. Toupouse Bowling Center had respectable totals of 861, 1037 and 995 for 2893.

Win A Pair

Sangi's Bowlero, the other local team, won two games from Anel Development as four of the five local keggers shot above 600. Mike Rienzo showed the way with 637. Dick Howard hit 633.

Vince Carpio 617 and Tom Carlin 608. Nick Leoce socked 642 to pace Anel.

After winning with efforts of 996 and 1103, Sangi's lost the final game by six pins, 990-984.

Other top shooters in the star-studded circuit included Bill Tarsio 669, Clarence Youngberg 666, Gil Toupouse 614, Bill Pimm 609, Bob DeLaney 607, Jim Mills 603, Jim Torelli 503 and Ed Gordon 602.

Modern Vending, leading second place Forst by five games will oppose the locals next week in a position night match. Sangi's Bowlero, in a tie for fourth spot, will meet Tompkins and Baxter Insurance.

Harry Hohnhorst Did Drawing for Bowling Column

Harry Hohnhorst, the prominent Woodstock painter and golfer, did the drawing for the new bowling column head which appears for the first time in today's issue.

Hohnhorst, perennial Ulster County Seniors golf champion and an ardent sports fan, drew on the Catskill Mountain legend of Rip Van Winkle for the theme. In one corner may be seen the keg of good cheer, Ergo, the sports page jargon of "kegler" for bowler.

In his youth, Hohnhorst served as sports cartoonist for the Cleveland Plain Dealer. He is one of the oldest members of the original Woodstock art colony.

Rondout Valley Wins, 18-0, Over Highland in UCAL Tilt

Rondout Valley's hustling Ganders scored on the first play from scrimmage and went on to whitewash winless Highland, 18-0, in a UCAL game Saturday at Dietz Stadium.

Halfback Tom Tegeler and end Pete Green combined on a 74 yard pass play to put the Ganders into the early lead. Green caught the pigskin on the HHS 40 and went the rest of the way.

Halfback John Brush scored the other two RVC touchdowns. He went 27 yards in the second period and climaxed a 46 yard drive in the third quarter with a 10 yard run.

Rondout's defensive team, paced by linebackers Bob Baker and Dennis Lee and middle guard Len Black, stopped the Highlanders from mounting an attack.

Rondout will host unbeaten Liberty in a key league clash on Saturday.

In a Saturday morning clash, the Rondout javees kept their record clean with a 26-13 win over Highland. The junior Ganders are 5-0 to date.

Northeastern Council Bowlers Meet Here

Trophies were presented to 1963 champions of the Northeastern Council of the American Bowling Congress Association at a meeting attended by several state and national dignitaries Sunday at the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

Ferraro's Bowlerama team was awarded the first place trophy for winning the tournament held June 23 at Worcester, Mass. Members of the team were Chris Gallo, Larry Petersen, Phil Versace, Jack Ferraro and John Ferraro. The team won the Newburgh City Association tournament last year to qualify for the tournament.

Three Brothers Egg Farms, Kingston association champions were awarded third prize. Team members included Bob Shelighner, Bill Lawrence, Joe Ausanio, Tom Carlin and Harold Broskie.

Dick Howard and Joe Misasi received a second place award in the doubles event won by a duo from southeastern Massachusetts.

The KBA hosted the 1963 semi-annual autumn meeting Sunday, with president Philip Battaglia serving as chairman of the meeting. Approximately 75 ABC directors, state officers and association executive committee members, along with the 1963 association champions attended. The Northeastern Council of the ABC consists of 47 local associations in New England and southeastern New York State.

Dignitaries Attend

Among the tennin dignitaries present were John Goldsmith, ABC director, Western Connecticut and secretary of the New York City bowling association; Victor Edwin, ABC director, eastern Connecticut and eastern Long Island; Charles Ehren, ABC director, southeastern New York; Walter Kreuger, president of the State of Connecticut Bowling Association; Steve Robutka, executive secretary-treasurer of the Connecticut association; Robert Lynch, Eastern field representative of the ABC; Roger Cornell, executive secretary-treasurer of the Northeastern Council; Otto Greisel, first vice president of the New York City BA and New York State Bowling Association.

'Hamlet' Chance For Burton to Show He's Actor

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
PUERTO VILLARTA, Mexico
(AP)—A fact sometimes overlooked is that Richard Burton is also an actor.

His performance as a headline-maker has somewhat overshadowed his acting talent. The American public may be more conscious of this talent late this winter when he brings his "Hamlet" to New York.

He is undertaking once more the role he played longer than any other actor at the Old Vic, winning him praise from Winston Churchill. He explained his reasons as he waited in a local cafe to be called for scenes of "The Night of the Iguana."

"Next year is 1964, the 400th anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare," he said. "While there is a great deal of celebration in England, there seems to be little in the United States. I felt something should be done about it."

"Also, I recently did a film in England, 'Becket,' with John Gielgud. He asked me one day why I didn't do Hamlet once more before I got too old. I said I had definite ideas of how I would like to do it this time, and he asked me what they were. They happened to be some of the same ideas he had, so I agreed to do it if he would direct."

Burton, who last did "Hamlet" in 1954, hasn't appeared on the London stage for six years. "The New York theater is more exciting," he said, "and the critics are fair, whereas in London they are merely snide."

Burton has come a long way from Porthorhydyfen, Wales, where he was born 39 years ago Nov. 10. In some respects his habits are little changed from what they might have been if he had stayed in the mining town.

He is a prodigious drinker. This is his first trip to Mexico, and he has discovered tequila. "The other night I totaled 21 before I stopped counting," he said. It was out at the beach and Elizabeth (Taylor) and the others on the beach were covered with bites the next day. I had none. I think I discovered something."

Teen-age Market Expanding, Big Business Factor

Editors note—Teen-agers, the fastest growing segment of the population, have emerged since World War II as a dynamic factor in the economy. This first of two articles tells the size and impact of their multibillion-dollar purchasing power.

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — There's gold in those blue jeans pockets. Teen-agers have billions of dollars to spend.

The market they make up is a phenomenon of modern merchandising.

Merchants who were in the habit of lumping youngsters' spending with that of the family are going all out to cater to their widely diversified needs and desires.

They realize now that the teen-age market is independent and expanding rapidly. It is estimated that there are 11,065,000 teen-age girls in the United States and that there will be 13,116,000 by 1970.

They have $6.3 billion a year of their own to spend. There are more than nine million boys 14 to 17 years old—"teen-men," the storekeepers like to call them.

These youths have an estimated $16 billion of expendable income.

The rising proportion of youthful consumers in the population stems from the post-World War II surge in the birth rate.

The increase in the U.S. population between 1960 and 1970 is estimated at between 12 and 22 per cent. But the number of youngsters in the free-spending 15-to-19-year-old segment will spur more than 40 per cent.

"Until after World War II business had never shown much interest in the young woman under 20—in fact no one did except teen-age boys," says Enid A. Haupt, editor of Seventeen magazine, a publication for girls.

"In just this short span of time teens have catapulted into the economic limelight, their pockets bulging with dollars to spend, their spirits filled with

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Monday, October 21, the 294th day of 1963. There are 71 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1835, the editor of "The Abolitionist," William Lloyd Garrison, was rescued from a pro-slavery mob which sought to tar and feather him. His rescuer, Theodore Lyman, acted at the risk of his own life.

On this date In 1797, the U.S. Frigate "Constitution," better known as "Old Ironsides," was launched at Boston.

In 1837, Seminole Indian Chief Osceola was seized and imprisoned while visiting a U.S. Army camp in Florida under a flag of truce.

In 1879, American inventor Thomas Alva Edison tested the first practical incandescent electric light bulb.

In 1938, Japanese troops captured the Chinese city of Canton.

In 1945, women voted in France for the first time.

Ten years ago...President Eisenhower defended Ezra Taft Benson's handling of the nation's farm problems against demands that the secretary of agriculture resign.

Five years ago...Two peeresses were inducted into the House of Lords—the first to sit in the upper house of the British Parliament since its founding in the 14th Century.

One year ago...Forty-four lives were lost when the Norwegian liner "Svithun" ran aground and sank off Vikna Island in Western Norway.

the desire for new things, new experiences, new loyalties. "They have become a separate and distinct group in our society—they're the new frontier of the economy—they're the unexpected bonanza for industry."

The boys represent an even bigger market than girls as far as their own money is concerned. That's because many pad out their allowances from the family with jobs after school and on weekends. Young buyers are highly conscious of brand names promoted in advertisements, marketing analysts have found.

The teen-age market is wide open to the alert advertiser, says Eugene Gilbert Co., research and survey organization. "Teen-agers are a follow-the-leader group," he adds. "They are more susceptible to advertising than any other age group."

An executive is a person who can take two hours for lunch without having everybody miss him.

The professor, who was famous for the wool-gathering of his wits, returned home, and had his ring at the door answered by a new maid. The girl looked at him inquiringly:

Professor—Um—ah—is Professor Thompson at home? (naming himself.)

New Maid—No, sir, but he is expected any moment now.

The professor turned away, the girl closed the door. Then the poor man sat down on the steps to wait for himself.

WANT-AD WONDERS

A West German manufacturer discovered that advertising does pay—with a vengeance. He offered 500 free watches in want ads to celebrate the opening of a new branch. He hoped for an enthusiastic reception. He got a riot. More than an hour before the shop opening there started a mob scene of struggling, fighting people. Police had to be called to bring about peace and order and hundreds had to be turned away.

Scattered Showers Possible Latter Part of This Week

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from 7 p.m. today through 7 p.m. Saturday:

Eastern New York—Temperatures will average around six degrees or more above normal with no major daily changes indicated. Some scattered showers are possible in the latter portion of the week, but drenching rains are not yet indicated.

Western New York—Temperatures will average 8 to 12 degrees above normal. Warmer Wednesday and Thursday then little change the remainder of the week. Precipitation expected to be sparse, totaling less than two-tenths of an inch in scattered showers towards end of the week.

Temperatures—Normals—Daytime highs, in the 50s. Nighttime lows, middle 30s to low 40s.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

KORTH: "I was not asked to resign by anybody," says Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth in denying published reports that he resigned his Pentagon post at the request of the Kennedy administration.

Korth's declaration was made Saturday night through an aide in answer to questions by newsmen about reports that his sudden resignation a week ago was on demand.

Korth said in his letter of resignation that he was leaving for urgent personal reasons. And he reiterated that in a long formal statement issued Saturday.

Some of his associates had indicated his decision to quit effective Nov. 1 was based on a difference of opinion with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara over use of nuclear power for a new super aircraft carrier.

VALACHI: If the Justice Department can spare him as a grand jury witness, mobster-former Joseph Valachi will go back to Capitol Hill this week. But his testimony will be behind closed doors instead of a hearing room crowded with spectators, newsmen and photographers.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., says his Senate Investigations subcommittee wants to question Valachi about matters so closely related to some pending criminal trials that the testimony should not be made public.

McClellan said the narcotics racket was among the subjects involved. No date was set for Valachi's return appearance.

FOREIGN AID: The foreign aid agency says Latin America is getting more U. S. assistance per capita than any other area of the world.

The Agency for International Development reported that in 1961-62 Latin America's share of the U. S. aid budget rose to 25 per cent, compared to 7 per cent for 1946-60.

Last year, Latin America got $1,038,000,000 in U. S. aid, the equivalent of $4.82 per person.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

DAR Hears History Of Northeast and Activities Plan

The historical Northeast was the topic of the recent meeting of Saugerties Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution held at the home of Mrs. Chester Glunt, Lighthouse Drive. Plans of other activities were announced.

Mrs. Betty Layton, librarian, gave a talk on the Historical Northeast. Three spots were discussed in full. Old Church, 1676, Bennington, Vt., Saratoga and Schuyler Mansion, Albany.

With Christmas time approaching reports were given and plans formulated for bringing Christmas to the chapter's two "adopted" children.

David Turner is the name of our boy at Tamasee School. He is 12 years old now and in the 7th grade. Clothing and money will be sent. Other boxes will be sent to be distributed among his classmates.

Carol Jean Snow, the adopted Indian girl, will also receive money and clothing. Boxes will also be packed to be sent to the reservation.

It was gratifying to learn that Carol Jean had received a scholarship to Syracuse University and will start her freshman year in 1965.

Members may bring gifts and donations of clothing to the November meeting so the boxes can be packed and sent in plenty of time for the holidays.

The chapter received an announcement from Saugerties High School that Miss Phyllis McLaughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon McLaughlin, Woodstock Road, Saugerties, had received the 1964 DAR Good Citizen Award. She was selected by her fellow students and a faculty committee. The DAR Good Citizens Committee endeavors to stimulate the youth of America to value character building as a basis of good citizenship. An annual award is given to a senior high school girl from each state.

The national winner is eligible for a $1,000 scholarship to the college of her choice.

Miss Marie Pidgeon presented for inspection three books she has donated to the Saugerties Library in the name of the Saugerties Chapter DAR. The books were a two volume set of This

Home Unit Plans Rummage Sale During This Week

Centerville Unit of Home Demonstration recently announced final plans for a rummage sale to be held on October 23, 24 and 25, at the Odd Fellows Building, Main Street, Saugerties. Doors will open from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Mary Kamps will be in charge.

On Friday the ladies will also have a food sale at the same place.

Jewelry lessons will be held at the hall on November 7 under the supervision of Mrs. Frieda Arnst. Anyone interested in this lesson can call up Mrs. Arnst.

Following the meeting in November, the members will wear funny hats and prizes will be awarded for the funniest. Entertainment will follow.

The usual covered dish for the Christmas party will not take place. Instead the ladies decided to have a luncheon on December 17 at Kurtas. At this time they will exchange gifts and have entertainment.

IN MONTGOMERY WARD SHOW — Jane Markovsky, Miss Saugerties of 1964 will be appearing in the fashion show 8 p. m. Tuesday at the new Montgomery Ward Department Store, Route 9W and Boice Lane. The fashion show will be part of a reception and preview tour of the new store for dignitaries and area civic leaders beginning at 7 p. m. The new fall fashions will be presented. The new department store officially opens for business on Wednesday. Patricia Ann Warns, first runner-up will attend with Miss Markovsky.

Is America, My Country, edited by Donald H. Sheehan Ph.D., History Department, Columbia University. The other was a beautiful edition of The American Heritage Book of Indians by the editors of American Heritage.

Dr. Dexter Arnold, Saugerties superintendent of schools, has mentioned the importance for each classroom to have an American Flag. It was discovered that there were 12 classrooms without flags. Realizing the prime endeavor and aim of the DAR is to instill in each citizen a knowledge of his American heritage and the importance of protecting and keeping it alive, the Saugerties Chapter DAR voted to join with the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars in presenting these 12 flags to the school.

The November meeting will be held at 2 o'clock p. m. on November 6, at the home of Mrs. Daniel Lamoree. Hostesses will be Mrs. Thomas Reynolds Sr., Mrs. Alvah Bell and Mrs. William Cotton. The program will be a report from Mrs. Carroll Niefer, District III, state vice chairman, public relations.

Mrs. William D. Brinnier, Chapter public relations chairman was asked to request the cooperation of the news media in the publication of a report of the meeting.

Names In The News

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "That is Mommie and Daddy," the 2-year-old in the front row yelled as the bridegroom kissed the bride.

Speaking was Andrew Mayo and he was right.

Andrew and his 4-year-old sister, Amanda, were among the guests as actress Janet Blair and television producer Nick Mayo repeated their marriage vows.

The ceremony took place in the same Swedenborgian church where they were married 11 years ago.

Andrew's outburst didn't bother Miss Blair.

"What can you expect when you take your children to your wedding?" she said.

OSLO (AP)—Trygve Lie, former secretary-general of the United Nations, is hospitalized in Oslo with an unidentified illness.

Lie, Norway's minister of industries, became ill Friday while visiting the state-owned steel works at Mo i Rana in northern Norway.

The 67-year-old statesman was the first U.N. secretary-general, serving from 1946 to 1953.

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP) — Three of the Fischer quintuplets have completed a giant step toward normal babyhood.

Mary Catherine and Mary Margaret Fischer were taken from Islette and put in incubators at St. Luke's Hospital Sunday. Brother James Andrew, largest of the quintuplets, got out of the Islette last week.

The two other girls, Mary Ann and Mary Magdalene, are still in Islette. But, like the others, they're getting along nicely.

Centerville Fire Company responded to a woods fire at 2:30 p. m. near the Old Band Camp, Pine Grove where a small area of woods was burning. They were called out again by silent alarm at 9:30 p. m. to wet down the same area.

Postpone Wednesday Vols Training Class

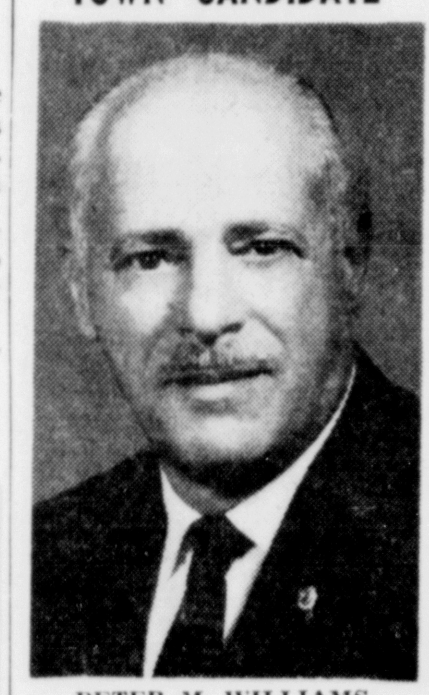

The sixth in the series of fireman training sessions scheduled Wednesday 7:30 p. m. at Malden fire station, has been postponed until next Wednesday, Oct. 30 due to the expected absence of the instructor, Robert Fuhr of Stone Ridge.

The 12-week course sanctioned by the State Division of Fire Safety is being held each Wednesday in Malden fire station under the auspices of Malden-West Camp Fire Company.

All area firemen are welcome to attend.

SAUGERTIES GOP TOWN CANDIDATE

PETER M. WILLIAMS

A dedicated public servant, Peter M. Williams, who has given more than 14 of his most productive years to the office of Saugerties town supervisor, is the Republican candidate to succeed himself in the November 5 election.

He has ably guided the township during its greatest expansion in history. New situations requiring the utmost in clear thinking and good sound judgment, and decisions that never before had to be made by any administrator of the township, were effectively handled by Supervisor Williams. During these most trying times, he has always upheld the high integrity of his office.

The establishment of new industries in the township is no accident. Industries seeking new sites look for townships which are operated economically and those who maintain a fair tax rate.

Supervisor Williams' policies and economics has made the township attractive to industry. This has been done without subsidies or promises of preferential treatment and has cost the taxpayer nothing.

A noted champion of local veterans, Supervisor Williams manages to squeeze into his busy schedule time to aid and comfort the ex-serviceman and his family. He is often called upon to head campaigns of benevolence and has given his services to further the youth organizations of the community.

A man of great political stature in Ulster County, he is known for his loyalty to his constituents in the township and is constantly alert to their needs.

His decisions are always governed by his political creed: "To handle all matters in the most efficient manner to benefit the greatest number of people."

Taken to Hospital With Throat Wound

A Briarcliff Manor man was in Kingston Hospital today, the apparent victim of a self-inflicted wound, according to state police.

He was identified as Bryant Tuckerman, 48, of 121 Schande Road, Briarcliff Manor, Westchester County.

Troopers said they found Tuckerman about 5:20 p. m. Sunday on Route 299 about two miles west of New Paltz. They said that Tuckerman was despondent over personal problems and attempted to take his life by cutting his throat. Tuckerman was treated by Dr. Jeffery Wiersum of New Paltz and taken by the New Paltz ambulance to the hospital. Investigator Richard Ryan of the BCI, Lake Katrine, investigated.
